Booklets, Holy Cards To Be Distributed In Diocese

An attorney of Omaha, Nebraska, has offered to send to all pastors of the Fort Wayne diocese a copy of "The Secret of Mary," written by St. Louis de Montfort, and to the Sisters of the schools a sufficient number of "Immaculate Heart of Mary Holy Cards" for all their pupils. On the back of the holy picture is the form of Consecration to the Immaculate Heart of Mary in keeping with the Fatima message.

This gentleman is having 8,000,000 of these cards printed for distribution in Italy; 1,000,000 to be distributed in Portugal, and another 1,000,000 to be distributed in Spain at the time of the International Eucharistic Congress.

In all 42,000,000 of these holy pictures have been bought and printed.

What is the purpose? He tells it in his letter to me as follows:

"We believe that the best spiritual method to defeat the philosophy of Communism is to spread devotion to Our Lady over all the world in a quiet, secret manner, without any publicity, and through the Hierarchy of each nation and under their wisdom and guidance."

In order that this gentleman might not have to send separate packages to every pastor and to every school, I have directed him to send a sufficient number for full coverage of each deanery to the Deans of the five districts into which this diocese is divided. Pastors, of course, will make distribution easier for the Dean if they will call both for the books and pictures for their school children and School Sisters.

The gentleman writes:

"I would like to give the holy cards as gifts for all the children in your grade and high schools, and for all in your Orphanages, hospitals and Old Peoples' Homes. I will give Your Excellency the booklet for all the Sisters in your diocese. I will also give "The Secret of Mary" booklet for all priests in your diocese."

The gentleman writes as President of "The Sacred Heart International Foundation Fund, of Omaha, Nebraska." He observes:

"The foundation has purchased 42,000,000 of the holy cards and had the prayer translated into many languages and distributed them all over the world."

If Catholic laymen are willing to spend, let us say $2,000,000.00 to supply these things to the faithful, the least they can do is to use them.

Another gentleman, President of the Jamaica Water Supply Company, of New York, is distributing what he calls "Your Family Stations of the Cross." He has secured the approbation of the Holy See for this, and Cardinal Spellman has given his Imprimatur. He wants this devotion to spread, and would like to see "Your Family Stations of the Cross" in the hands of as many persons as possible.

By the way, have you one-tenth the zeal of these gentlemen — spiritual-minded, even though prominent in business?

Dr. Malik, who also is Minister of Lebanon to the United States, will address nearly 900 new graduates of Notre Dame at the June Exercises of Notre Dame's 107th Commencement in the Notre Dame Stadium.

The Notre Dame Commencement speaker, a native of Beirut, Al-Koura, Lebanon, was named Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of Lebanon in the United States in 1945, and was named to a similar post in Cuba in 1946. He served as Minister-Designate to Venezuela from 1947 to 1948.

Dr. Malik has represented Lebanon in the United Nations since 1945, when he was the signatory for his nation at the United Nations Conference on International Organization in San Francisco. In 1948 he served as president of the United Nations Economic and Social Council.

Dr. Malik served as chairman of the Delegation of Lebanon to the Conference for the Conclusion and Signing of the Peace Treaty with Japan in San Francisco in 1951. He has served as chairman of the Commission on Human Rights in the United Nations both in 1951 and 1952.

U.S. Supreme Court Upholds New York's Released Time Plan

Washington—(NC)—The U. S. Supreme Court in a 6 to 3 decision upheld the New York Released Time Program of Religious Instruction for Public School pupils. The New York plan, model for programs in a number of states, estimated some two million children taking Released Time instructions throughout the country.

Rev. Leo Herber To Be Ordained In Ohio May 18

Archbishop Alter Confers Holy Orders On New Haven Man

Carthagen, Ohio—The Rev. Mr. Leo F. Herber, C.P.P.S., son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo J. Herber, R. R. 2, New Haven, will be ordained to the Holy Priesthood on Sunday, May 18, at 9 a.m. (E.S.T.) in St. Charles Seminary chapel, here. His Excellency, the Most Rev. Karl J. Alter, D.D., Archbishop of Cincinnati will confer Holy Orders.

Rev. Mr. Herber was born in Fort Wayne on November 1, 1926. He received his early education at St. Peter's school, Fort Wayne and St. John's school, New Haven.

In 1940, he entered Brunnerdale Seminary, Canton, Ohio, a preparatory for the Society for the Most Precious Blood. He took his college studies at St. Joseph's College, Rensselaer, graduating in 1946. He then entered St. Charles Seminary.

The newly-ordained will say his First Solemn Mass at St. John's Church, New Haven on Sunday, May 25. Ministers of the first Mass are:

The Rev. William Ehrman, pastor at St. John's, assistant priest; the Rev. Alvin Herber, C.P.P.S., a brother of the ordinand, deacon; the Rev. Max Herber, C.P.P.S., an uncle, subdeacon, and the Rev. Henry Ameling, assistant at St. John's, master of ceremonies.

The Rev. Charles Herber, C.P.P.S., another uncle of the Rev. Mr. Herber, will deliver the sermon.

Commencement Speakers

Dubuque, Ia. —(NC)— Bishop Edward C. Daly, O.P., of Des Moines and Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin will address the graduating class at Loras College here at commencement exercises on June 1, it has been announced. Bishop Daly will give the baccalaureate at services in the college's Chapel of Christ the King, while Secretary Tobin will speak at the graduation exercises.

Justice William O. Douglas read the majority decision, joined by Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson and Associate Justices Stanley F. Reed, Harold H. Burton, Tom Clark and Sherman Minton. Dissenting were Justices Hugo L. Black, Felix Frankfurter and Robert H. Jackson.

"It takes obtuse reasoning," Justice Douglas declared, "to inject any issue of the free exercise of religion into the present case. No one is forced to go to the religious classroom, and no religious exercise of instruction is brought to the classrooms of the public schools. A student need not take religious instructions. He is left to his own desires as to the manner or time of his religious devotion, if any."

The majority opinion pointed out that the Constitution "does not say that in every and all respects there shall be separation of Church and State. Rather, it studiously defines the manner, the specific ways in which there shall be no concert or union of dependency one on the other. That is the common sense of the matter."

Justice Douglas stressed: "We are a religious people whose institutions presuppose a Supreme Being." He pointed out that the decision does not affect the 1948 ruling in the McCollum case outlawing Released Time Program in Champaign, Ill., because religious instructions were given on Public School property. Under the New York plan, instructions are given off of Public School property.

Former RCAF Officer, Believed Dead During War, Is Ordained

Ottawa —(NC)— J. Thomas Farrell, a former Royal Canadian Air Force Officer who was shot down over Germany in August, 1944, and officially listed as missing and believed dead, has been ordained a priest here.

Archbishop Alexander Vachon of Ottawa officiated at the ordination in St. George's Church.

For one year after he had been shot down, Flying Officer Farrell had been a prisoner of war in the Stalag Luft 1. He was liberated in August, 1945.

Official Support New Immigration Bill

There is a Bill before the House of Representatives, Washington, designed to promote the entry of an additional 300,000 persons to the United States over a three year period. By "Persons of German Ethnic Origin" is meant "any person, essentially of German origin who was born in Czechoslovakia, Albania, Estonia, Hungary, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, Rumania, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria."

Since Western Germany had to absorb 7,800,000 expellees as a result of the Potsdam Agreement, and since Austria is over-burdened by the presence of 300,000 expelled Volksdeutsche and some 30,000 refugees, and since Italy houses more than 500,000 refugees and other persons who never lived there, the Bishops of the United States favor the passage of House Bill 7376, and would like to have a few "leading members" of all parishes write to their Senators and Representatives to vote for the passage of that Bill.

The Bishop would like to send off this coming week the collection taken up in all the parishes for the Bishops' Welfare and War Relief. Hence he would be very grateful to the few pastors, who have not yet remitted that collection, if they will do so at the earliest possible moment.

On Sunday, May 4, "The Catholic League for Religious Assistance to Poland" is requesting a collection in all the Polish parishes of the diocese to help the particular cause for which that League is functioning.

Cardinal Pizzardo, of Rome, earnestly requests this collection because there are two Polish seminaries in which the Holy See is interested. They are in dire need.

Should any other pastor care to take up a second collection for this purpose, he is, of course, welcome to do so.

Prayers are requested for the repose of the soul of the father of the Rev. James A. Stapleton. Mr. Stapleton died in Hamlet, April 20.

Prayers are requested for the repose of the soul of the father of the Rev. William J. Gieranowski, assistant at Munster. Mr. Gieranowski was buried in South Bend, April 26.

New Sickness and Accident Benefits Include $25 Weekly Payment Feature Costs Only $12 a Year—Down Payment $2⁵⁰

Ages 60 to 69 Only $18 a Year—Ages 70 to 75 Only $24 a Year

The older you are, the harder it is to get protection against financial worries that come when accident or sickness strikes. That's why the reliable North American Accident Insurance Company of Chicago has issued a special policy for men and women up to 75 years of age. It helps meet sudden doctor and hospital bills—and the cost is only $12 a year for both men and women from 15 to 59 years old... only $18 a year from 60 to 69 years... from ages 70 to 75 only $24 a year. Easy payment plan if desired.

No doctor's examination required, merely your own statement as to your present health. If your policy is in effect at age 75, you may even continue it to age 80 at no further increase in premium. ABSOLUTELY NO REDUCTION IN BENEFITS REGARDLESS OF AGE. Protects you 24 hours a day.

This is the popular, sound "SERIES 500" Limited Accident and Sickness Policy which thousands of men and women are carrying, all over the country—it pays $25 a week for 10 weeks for total disability resulting from certain specified accidents and sicknesses; AN ADDITIONAL $25 A WEEK for 4 weeks for accidents requiring hospital confinement; up to $25 cash for doctor bills (at the rate of $3 per visit) even for a minor accident such as a cut finger. In case of accidental death the policy pays $1,000.00 cash to your beneficiary. Accident benefits effective from date of policy. Sickness benefits effective 30 days from date of policy.

In addition, the policy covers many sicknesses including pneumonia, cancer, diabetes, tuberculosis, polio, ulcer of stomach or intestines, and operation for removal of appendix, hemorrhoids, gall bladder, kidney and prostate, paying the weekly benefit after the first seven days of confinement to either home or hospital.

This new policy also has a double indemnity feature covering travel accidents. You receive $50 a week if disabled by an accident in a bus, taxicab, train, subway or street car, and $75 a week if the accident requires hospital confinement. The death benefit increases to $2,000.00 if caused by a travel accident.

Your benefits are never reduced even though you are also insured in a Group Plan, Blue Cross or other Hospitalization Insurance. So if you are now a member of some worthy hospitalization plan, you still need this additional protection. Only a small percentage of people are confined to a hospital, and even then only for a fraction of the time they are disabled. Most people — over 80% — are confined at home where hospitalization plans do not apply. Or, they are hospitalized for a few days or a week, then spend weeks of convalescence at home before they can go back to work again. The North American Policy pays specified benefits regardless of whether you are confined to your home or to a hospital.

North American Accident Insurance Company of Chicago has been in business for more than sixty-five years, and is one of the largest sickness and accident companies with assets of over $19,000,000.00. It has paid out many millions to grateful policyholders when they needed help most. North American is licensed by the Insurance Departments of all 48 States and the District of Columbia.

Whatever your age, whether you are young or old, you need this sensible, necessary protection. Get full details about this new policy by sending for the revealing booklet, "Cash or Sympathy." The booklet is absolutely free. It will be mailed without charge or obligation of any kind. We suggest you get your free copy by mailing the coupon to Premier Policy Division, North American Accident Insurance Co. of Chicago, 830 Broad Street, Dept. 905, Newark 2, New Jersey.

South Bend Soldier Tells Of Easter In Korea

'Enemy Never Too Great To Prevent Christ From Visiting Our Men'

By PFC ROBERT G. RUETZ

This might all sound like a war story but it really isn't that; our experience yesterday really happened.

Father Sheehan called me Saturday and wanted me to get three men from Headquarters Company to sing at all the Easter Sunday Masses. He had a Jeep reserved for me, so I called Remy that afternoon and he got Bill Ryan, Ted Bakota and himself to sing Sunday morning. They picked me up at Service Company on Easter Sunday and we began our journey to the front and 9 o'clock Mass at First Battalion Headquarters.

We reached First Battalion 15 minutes late but set up the organ and sang four beautiful Latin hymns during Mass. After the first Mass, we journeyed to the rear and Regimental Headquarters. Father said 10:30 Mass there at which time Jim Schriber and Mel Revall were received into the church.

It did my heart good to see that they had been received into the Church because I have prayed for their conversion to Catholicism in the past. Both Jim and Mel were baptized and received their First Holy Communion on Easter Sunday. A very glorious and happy day for both.

I have talked with them many times in the past concerning the church. They were very impressed and responsive to the example set by many Catholics they had seen. This shows how important example is in our religion.

We ate chow at Regimental and then began the worst part of the journey, right up to the front line. However, we found out that no

The following account of Easter at the front in Korea was related by an Army private in a letter to his parents. "The greatest thing" that happened to him on that day was the opportunity to attend five Masses. He tells how the men used the simple implements of nature to fashion altars for the Holy Sacrifice.

Private Ruetz is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ruetz of 1121 North St. Peter Street, South Bend. A graduate of Central Catholic high school, Ruetz attended the University of Notre Dame, receiving a Bachelor of Arts degree in Music in June, 1950.

He entered the Army in October, 1950 and received his basic training at Camp Polk, Louisiana. In April, 1951, he sailed with the 45th Oklahoma National Guard Division for Japan. The 45th Division, under the present rotation plan, was sent to Korea in November, 1951.—Editor.

vehicles would be allowed over the pass because the Chinese had shelled the roads we were to travel on Saturday. The Colonel had issued an order to the effect that no vehicles should be allowed over those roads. They are under observation at all times because there are no hills to shield them from the enemy.

The roads we were to travel then were right out in the open and could easily be seen by the Chinese. They could have lobbed as many artillery rounds as they wanted at us. In fact, there were small craters all over the place.

However, the Blessed Virgin was with us all day; not one round came anywhere near us. There were a few enemy artillery rounds flying in but they were always clear of us. The Chinese do not go for Jeeps anyway. They want tanks and heavy trucks to aim at.

Father got permission to travel over this dangerous area, so we adjusted our steel helmets and set out for a rough ride through what looked like a no-man's land with nothing but burned-out trucks, destroyed vehicles and enemy guns and gutted villages with the straw thatched roofs barely standing.

Our next Mass was at Second Battalion, high in the mountains over narrow roads with sheer drops of hundreds of feet. At one spot, we had to pass a stalled 2½-ton truck with only inches to spare before going off the shoulder and over the cliff. It was a good thing that the shoulder was solid or we would have gone off. I sat in the seat next to the edge and, in an open Jeep with no doors, one felt like vomiting that old heart up.

Again, Our Lady was with us and sure helped us over the rough spots. Remy was really sweating when we hit Second Battalion. Father said Mass at 2:30 and we journeyed back across the mountains to Third Battalion, the most dangerous sector of all. We had a slow leak in the right rear tire which didn't help matters.

I didn't realize that we had two bad tires until we got to "M" Company later in the afternoon. That was the time we really started

Michigan City Deanery

Mrs. John J. Cunningham

A successful year in the history of the Catholic Woman's Study Club was closed with a luncheon at the Pottawattomie Country club. Monsignor E. H. Vurpillat, NCCW moderator of the deanery, pastor of Immaculate Conception, as guest speaker, congratulated the members on the steady growth during the past 35 years.

He said an organization such as the Study club should always be considered an instrument to help carry out the will of the Church.

"If we consider everything that happens to us, and everything we do, except sin, of course, in the light of 'Thy Will Be Done,' then true security and peace of soul will follow in our lives," he said.

Mrs. E. Heise, re-elected president, gave a resume of last year's activities and projects. The club sponsors three Girl Scout troops, donates to local charities, and co-operates in civic and community activities whenever possible. There are now approximately 100 members in the group.

Significance Of That First Date

Fort Wayne — For fathers and mothers, their growing children, and everyone interested in the younger generation, the Hour of St. Francis describes the emotions of a father who watches a little girl disappear. The program will be aired at 9:45 p.m. Friday, May 2, over Radio Station WOWO.

One day Jim Bishop brings a baby girl home from the hospital; in no time at all, or so it seems to him, her mother calmly announces that Virginia is going out with a boy. The bewildered father is forced to admit that his daughter is now fifteen years old.

As he and her mother await the daughter's return, Jim slowly realizes the full significance of this first date, not only for Virginia, but also for her parents.

Brother Angelus, Oldest Member Of Holy Cross Order, Dies At Age Of 89

Notre Dame — Funeral services for Brother Angelus Dolan, C.S.C., aged 89, who at the time of his death was the oldest member of the Congregation of Holy Cross, were held April 29 in Sacred Heart Church on the campus of the University of Notre Dame.

Brother Angelus, who for forty years had served as a world-wide canvasser for the Ave Maria magazine published at Notre Dame, died Saturday morning, April 26 in the Community Infirmary at Notre Dame after a seven year illness. The Rev. Patrick Hagerty, C.S.C., superior of the Commu-ity Infirmary, celebrated the Requiem Mass. Burial was in the Community Cemetery at Notre Dame.

A native of Weilgan, England, Brother Angelus received the habit on August 15, 1862, and entered the novitiate on June 1 of the same year. He made his final vows before the Rev. William Corby, C.S.C., chaplain of the famed Irish Brigade during the Civil War and later President of Notre Dame.

For several years before his retirement, Brother Angelus served as Guest Master in the Notre Dame Administration Building.

FACTS not Rumors

The following statement was made on the 6 p.m. WOWO News Program, April 14th. We are repeating it here because TV is an important subject and everyone should have the true facts about it.

As the result of the recent action by the Federal Communications Commission in "unfreezing" television applications, rumor and misunderstanding have caused a lot of confusion, and we feel our WOWO friends should have the facts.

WOWO has had on file with the FCC, an application for a Very High Frequency channel. However, the FCC has ruled they will grant only Ultra High Frequency channels for commercial use in Fort Wayne. So our first step is to amend our present application so that it will apply to an Ultra High Frequency channel. This will be accomplished not later than July 1st.

Some time later—and it might be as much as a year or more later—Westinghouse, along with all other applicants for a Fort Wayne channel—will appear before the FCC and explain its capabilities with reference to operating a television station. The FCC will then decide who among the applicants will be granted a license to bring to the Fort Wayne area audience this wonderful new medium of television.

At least six months after a license is granted there should be television in Fort Wayne.

I do not want to sound pessimistic, but it is my guess that we will not have television in Fort Wayne for from one and one-half to two years from this date.

Month Of Our Mother

MRS. OWEN E. DALY

"Tis the month of our Mother, the blessed and beautiful days."

All our activities this month seem but variations of one theme—prayer to our Blessed Mother. May is her month, a time when her children honor her with songs and flowers, asking her special intercession with her Divine Son. Even the secular world has chosen May in which to honor earthly mothers.

As we celebrate Mother's Day this year, let us remember God's Mother and offer her our loving prayer. And may that prayer be the one which Our Lady herself recommended to us, the prayer which she prizes above all others, her Rosary. Let us gather our families together to say the rosary, not only this month, but always, a strong family tradition to be handed on, that the blessing of Mary's Son may be upon us and our work.

Let us strive always, and especially during this month to increase our love for our Blessed Mother, to make every day of our lives "Mary's Day," asking her to bring peace into our hearts and into the world.

NCCW To Aid Student Exchange Plan In U.S.

MRS. OWEN E. DALY

Since the end of the war the U. S. Government has been bringing a number of German and Austrian boys and girls to the United States for a one-year visit in American homes and schools. The general purpose of the project was to heal the wounds of war and to help Germany and Austria develop democratic institutions.

The program has proved to be highly successful. German and Austrian families, American families, and the Exchange students themselves have been most enthusiastic in their praise of the program.

The U. S. government has relied upon welfare agencies to locate typical American homes for these guests from abroad. Last year the National Catholic Welfare Conference with the help of the National Council of Catholic Women arranged for the placement of seventy-six Catholic youngsters in Catholic homes and schools. Both the N.C.W.C. and the N.C.C.W. have agreed to cooperate in the program again this year.

The first of August about 420 boys and girls are coming to this country as guests of the United States to spend a year in American homes and schools. The National Council of Catholic Women have been asked to find homes and schools for 75 of these boys and girls who are Catholics. Placement of these youngsters in good Catholic homes will enable them to continue the practice of their religion and to grow spiritually through their association with American Catholic family life.

These boys and girls are like American boys and girls in high school in this country. They come from fine families. Their fathers are businessmen, farmers and professional men.

Families are asked to take these youngsters into their homes and treat them as they would a member of their own family. In return these boys and girls are expected to give the host parents the same filial respect and devotion as they would their own parents.

When possible, these children should be enrolled in a Catholic high school. If necessary, the N.C.W.C. will assist in making arrangements for a scholarship.

After the N.C.C.W. has located Catholic families who are interested in the program, the National Catholic Welfare Conference, through the department of Education will contact them, arrange for placement of the youngsters, and supervise the project. All administration details will be handled by N.C.W.C.

The children in the diocese this year have been very successful.

G.A.S. House 'Operation Clean-Up' Successful

Gary — Everyone is happy at the Gary Alerding Settlement House. Why? Because the Annual Clean-up is over. The youth chalked the 9th successful year of Spring house cleaning and painting.

Pictured at the left and right are but two scenes of what the 97 youth did during the 9th annual Clean-up week at the Gary Alerding Settlement House last week. The boys had the "privilege" of washing the ceilings, walls and scrubbing the floors; the girls in turn washed and polished the furniture, woodwork and windows.

In four evenings the entire Settlement House, including the Sister's Convent was washed down and cleaned up. The Billiard Room was redecorated. Every evening from 7-9:30 p.m. the House buzzed like a bee-hive with youth swarming all over the place, armed with sponges, pails, mops, and dust-wash-polishing cloths. Then at 9:30 p.m. each evening all "signed off" and gathered in the Canteen for the evenings snacks and refreshments which were "on the House."

All told 97 youths took part in the project. The first evening 65 youths were on the job, then 72 the second, 83 the third and a "skeleton crew" of 20 youths the last evening, who put the furniture and equipment back into place.

This Annual Clean Up is a tremendous saving to the House. It is estimated that this clean-up saved the House between $1,500.00 and $2,000.00 this year. The actual cost of the clean-up, which includes material and refreshments amounted to $75.00.

The Community Chest appreciates what the House and youth do because it is such a tremendous saving. The project further teaches the youth a sense of responsibility and appreciation as well as giving them a feeling of ownership and a spirit of pride, that the Settlement House is their own Center and home.

Rev. Alfred J. Junk, principal of Bishop Noll high school, Hammond was elected as the delegate from the Midwest division of the National Catholic Education Association. He was elected for three years; this is his first year. The convention was held April 15-17, in Kansas City, Mo.

Agnes Ryan, St. Mary's senior who will receive her B.S. degree in Home Economics in August, has received a position to help in opening a home economics department at the College of Saint Mary's-of-the-Wasatch, Salt Lake City, Utah in September. Miss Ryan will teach under Sister M. Consolata, C.S.C., former head of the Chemistry department at St. Mary's and now president of Saint Mary's-of-the-Wasatch.

Sports Roundup

Hammond Noll Whips Tech And Dyer Nines

TOM RYDER

Hammond Noll snapped their losing streak with two smashing victories, a 13-7 decision over Dyer followed by a 15-1 triumph over Hammond Tech. Both games were played at Irving Park, Noll's home diamond.

Tech's pitcher, Bob Diehl got started on the wrong foot by allowing five runs on four hits in the first inning. Noll scored again in the second frame on Bob Pachura's home run to left field with the bases empty. Inning number three saw the Warriors push across four more runs on a single, two walks, and three errors. The final five runs scored by the Blue and Gold came in the fifth, with a double and five more walks. Tech's lone tallie came in the third inning on the combination of two errors, a single and a double.

Stan Koscinski, Noll's pitcher, was very effective in his second starting assignment allowing only two hits, walking none, and fanning nine batters. Meanwhile three Tiger pitchers allowed seven hits, nine walks, and five strike outs. Bob Diehl was the losing pitcher by giving up ten runs in three innings.

The weeks' first game was closer, but just as wild. Only five and half innings were played because of darkness.

Like the Tech game, Noll jumped off to a 3-0 lead in the first inning on three singles, a double, and an error. Noll made it 7-1 in the third inning with two singles, a walk, an error, and a double. During the fourth frame, Noll broke loose with six runs on five hits and two errors, two of the hits were doubles.

Dyer first scored in the third inning with two walks, a single, and an error to produce one run. In the fifth inning Noll's pitchers lost control by giving up four runs on one hit, a double, and five walks plus a hit batsman. The sixth frame produced two more Indian runs on a walk, a single, and a double.

Three Warrior moundsmen gave up four hits, while Dyer allowed 12 hits. Joe Kapuscinski received credit for the win and Dave Kilander was charged with the defeat.

St. Mary's, Michigan City Defeats Wanatah By 3-2

PAUL EISELE

It was win No. 2 for the Blazers of St. Mary's, Michigan City, when they took the decision from Wanatah, 3-2.

Bill Walter tossed a two-hitter for Wanatah but his six walks hurt Gene Duza of the Blazers was touched for three hits but he fanned several while giving up only one pass.

St. Mary's got away to a 2-0 lead in the first inning. Walks to Pat Bendix and Dick Dominiski started the scoring. Dick Benke popped out but Duza tripled to left scoring Bendix and Dominiski.

The frame ended when Gazler fanned and Duza was out trying to steal home.

Birde's walk, a fielder's choice and Gazler's single accounted for the winning Blazer run in the fifth.

Wanatah did its scoring in the second and seventh innings with a pair of Blazer errors contributing to the latter.

Duzas triple and Don Jonas' double for Wanatah were the only extra base blows of the game. No batter got more than one hit.

OUR SUNDAY VISITOR

FORUM

By
REV. JOSEPH J. HENNES
Diocesan Youth Director

In the Mary month of May C.Y.O.'ers think of mothers first. "Flowers of the fairest" are Mary's during her own special month—when circlets of blossoms and Ave's are offered to our Mother at processions, rallies and other May Devotions.

May is also the month when we honor on a special day each of our mothers—when, if at all possible, we adorn her too, or her resting place, with "sweet scented flowers."

We wonder if your C.Y.O.'ers might not want to put 1 and 1 together and come up with a terrific two-fold gift—a special spiritual bouquet—for mothers in May, a double blossom of Mass and Communion each day in honor of Mary, the mother of all C.Y.O.'ers and each C.Y.O.'ers own mother.

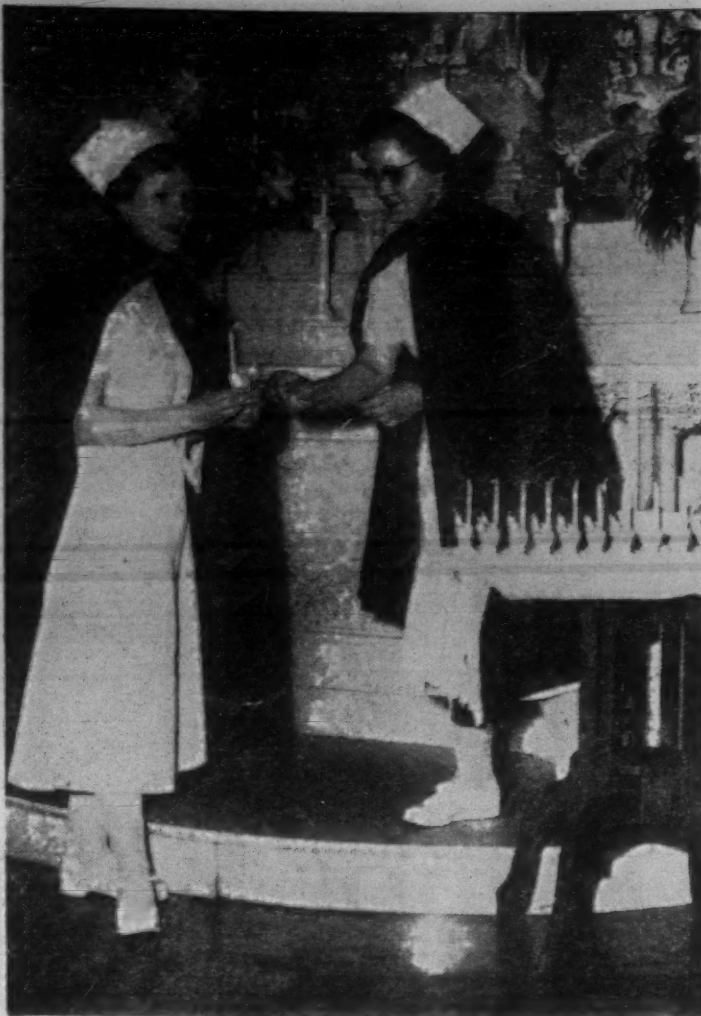

We think that our two mothers don't always get their just due during their special month. Sometimes it seems as if we take part in May processions and send flowers to our mothers almost automatically, more out of habit than the desire to give honor and respect where they are deserved.

We suggest a spiritual bouquet of Mass and Holy Communion every day in May or, at least every Sunday as our way of saying "Happy Mother's Day."

Monroeville—The C.Y.O. has chosen Spring Serenade as the theme of their dance to be held on May 4, immediately after the May Crowning Services. The semi-formal dance will be held in the C.Y.O. hall in Monroeville, with Tony's Orchestra from Ottoville, Ohio, furnishing the music. Refreshments and lunch will be served and admission will be $1.25 per couple.

C.Y.A. Plans Outing

Fort Wayne — The Catholic Young Adults will hold an outing and potluck supper at Bluffton State Park on Sunday, May 4. Members will leave from the Cathedral clubrooms at 1:00 p.m. On Wednesday, May 7, a progressive card party will be held in the clubrooms at 8:30 p.m.

They Do Not Want God In Our Schools

O.S.V. Observes 40th Anniversary

A Letter From The Editor

Dear Readers:

IT WILL be 40 years tomorrow that the first number of Our Sunday Visitor was published and warmly greeted everywhere in the United States. At that time, there was no national Catholic popular paper published, and only a limited number of diocesan papers that had anything like 40% coverage of the Catholic population in any diocese.

Our Sunday Visitor started out with 35,000 copies actually ordered by the clergy. At the end of the first year, the circulation had grown to 200,000; at the end of the second year to more than 400,000 copies per issue. This growth of an average of 4,000 new readers every week over a period of two years fell to a 2,000 weekly increase after the establishment of the Catholic Press Association, which made it possible for every Catholic paper to supply nation-wide and world-wide news to its readers, and made it much easier for the editor of a diocesan paper to produce a good journal and also to increase his subscription list.

Our Sunday Visitor was a charter-member of the Catholic Press Association and, although it was not publishing one line of Catholic news at that time, it became a subscriber to its news service, chiefly to give the movement encouragement.

When diocesan papers, or any local Catholic paper under lay auspices was founded, the editors agreed that the greatest contributing factor to its success was Our Sunday Visitor, which having come into the homes of the people for a few years, developed a Catholic paper appetite. Even the then editor of the Denver Register wrote to Father Noll that his best advance agent was Our Sunday Visitor. We have always urged the people to patronize local or diocesan papers.

We were urged by lay-editors and Bishops, 35 years ago, to permit O.S.V. to become a supplement to their respective papers, but our printing plant at that time did not have the capacity to render that service as it now does.

At the time Our Sunday Visitor was born, The Menace was less than one year old, but had a circulation of more than 1,000,000, because the Socialist party then had its greatest strength and every member was expected to circulate The Menace.

We do not mean that it had 1,000,000 subscribers, but that it had a press-run of that many copies which were sold in bundle lots to workers of the Socialist Party who, in turn, went about at night to place the paper on every front porch or in every mailbox.

The Menace was put out of business by our exposure of the character of the men who were sent to Aurora, Mo. to publish it. These men had previously been connected with the Socialist Party organ named The Appeal to Reason published at Girard, Kansas.

Since that time, Our Sunday Visitor has lived through two World Wars, has seen the decline of the Socialist movement, has fought the Communist party as it previously exposed the Guardians of Liberty, the Knights of Luther, the Ku Klux Klan and presently, the POAU,

MOST REV. JOHN F. NOLL, D.D. at his editorial desk pens a note of appreciation to the millions of readers who have supported Our Sunday Visitor for the past 40 years. "We have the most loyal family of readers of any publication in the United States," he says, as he promises a prayer for all, living or dead, who have helped to make Our Sunday Visitor the world's most widely read Catholic publication.

Secular Trend Is Certain To Bring Disaster

IN the year 1924 the National Education Association expressed itself in a most friendly manner towards the "independent competitive school system," which is principally the Catholic parochial school system. But today the Executive Secretary of the National Education Association is working hand in hand with the POAU (Protestants and Other Americans United) which, instituted by churchmen of various sects, is actually opposed to the teaching of religion in or out of schools.

A few years ago the late Nicholas Murray Butler, who had been President of Columbia University for several decades, and in whose school radical-minded professors taught, expressed great concern over the waning influence of religion in our schools. He wrote:

"Until within a reasonably short time, the process of education itself was dominated by religion . . . During the half century just past, this condition has changed entirely, and religious knowledge, together with religious interest, is passing, all too rapidly, out of the educational process."

Dr. F. E. Johnson, of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, wrote in November, 1939:

"The great souls who won for us the right to religious liberty were men and women who tremendously wanted to exercise it. Today very many of those who have recourse to the old slogan are using it primarily for the purpose of promoting, not religion, but secularism."

"The only reason why the whole nation does not go completely secular in a single generation is that other cultural influences, such as the church, the home—to some extent, but not characteristically, I fear—and volunteer agencies of various sorts slow the secularizing process. But it is only a slowing down. Unless I am quite mistaken, the inevitable result of our present education policy will be an increasing isolation of religion from life."

O.S.V.'s New 'Birthday Dress'

Word And Picture Story Of Publishing Plant

Our Sunday Visitor comes to you today in its new "birthday dress." We have completely changed our body type to the new Corona which is widely accepted today as the best of all new type faces. We hope you like the new appearance which our paper takes on as it observes the fortieth anniversary of its founding.

We shall not burden you with a technical explanation of the new type. Suffice it to say that Corona was chosen because it is a clear, sharp and beautiful type, easy to read and neat in appearance. It is a product of the Mergenthaler Linotype Company.

This issue of Our Sunday Visitor is given over in large part to a word and picture story of our publications and publishing plant. We call to your attention the two-page center spread of this issue, pages three and five for pictures and articles which we think will be of interest to all O.S.V. readers.

Especially on this page Bishop Noll tells you something of the history of Our Sunday Visitor. Here we'd like to say a few words about our present activities.

Our Sunday Visitor is the world's most widely read Catholic paper of instruction. It is published in 14 editions and reaches more than 800,000 homes each week. Our reading audience is estimated at more than 3,000,000 persons.

Diocesan Editions

Readers of O.S.V. are most familiar with our national edition which is distributed at almost 10,000 parish churches in the United States. O.S.V. is also widely read in Canada, and some copies go into every nation of the world in which English is spoken or read.

The other editions of O.S.V. are special diocesan editions which Bishops have made their official publications. Editions are published for the Archdiocese of Omaha and the following dioceses: Burlington, Vermont; Ogdensburg, New York; Charleston, South Carolina; Covington, Kentucky; Fort Wayne and Lafayette in Indiana; Rockford and Springfield in Illinois; Sioux City, Iowa; Winona, Minnesota and Marquette, Michigan. We also publish a National News Edition intended principally for dioceses which do not have their own newspapers.

The total circulation of O.S.V. is in excess of 800,000 copies per week. During the month of March our average weekly gross press run was 833,407.

Bishop Noll is still the active editor in chief of Our Sunday Visitor. Not a single issue has been published in 40 years that has not contained material from his pen. Usually the Bishop contributes not only one, but as many as five or six

Falls From Boat

St. Joe Student Drowns After Finishing Retreat

Rensselaer—Not five hours after he participated in the closing Sunday of a three-day spiritual retreat by receiving Holy Communion and the Papal blessing, Chester Tokarz, freshman at St. Joseph's College, was dead.

He was the only St. Joseph's College student who requested permission to make the retreat with the 52 visiting high school junior and senior boys, mostly from the Lafayette diocese.

Tokarz, a Chicagoan, went boating with another student in a gravel pit near the main campus Sunday afternoon after having played ball. He fell from the boat, apparently while trying to throw a heavy piece of wood overboard, and was not seen again.

Although the area was searched thoroughly, it was not until 7:15, about four hours later, that recovery of the body was made.

The funeral was held in Chicago at St. Francis of Assisi Church Thursday morning. Only a few years ago, Tokarz' twin brother was killed in an accident.

worrying. Driving through the muddy, no-man's land of the Choro Valley, you can just imagine what thoughts were running through our heads. . .

I imagine that the Chinese followed our moves pretty closely from their artillery O.P. because we were about the only one driving around in their area yesterday. It is a funny feeling not knowing whether an artillery or mortar shell is going to come whistling in.

Father Sheehan is a pretty courageous guy; he's that "old fire and brimstone" type who's not afraid of anything.

All I can say is that Our Lady certainly watched over us yesterday. A couple of times our Jeep stalled on the way to "L" Company's hill positions. It started to rain about 3 p.m. and the road was a quagmire. We drove half on the road and half over empty fields, forded streams and, in general, hit some very rough roads. . .

Father said 4 o'clock Mass at "L" Company, after which we ate chow there. It was a strange thing, the rain stopped just long enough for Mass to be said. The sun even came out but the sky clouded up right after Mass and it started to rain once again. . .

Father said Mass right at the foot of the hill where "L" Company has its positions. Of course, we were out of view of enemy observation at that time because Mass was said on the reverse slope of the hill. However, the day previous, two artillery rounds came rolling in right near the site of our Mass. . .

"L" Company had a very beautiful arrangement for Mass. They cut a niche in the side of their hill and lined it with the lavender flower that is now in bloom throughout Korea. Directly above the altar was a cross made of evergreen branches and also lined with the same lavender wildflower. It was a very appropriate color for Easter.

All of the Masses were said out-of-doors, even the one at "M" Company at 6:30 p.m., just before dark. At "M" Company we changed tires finally, only to learn that the new tire had a slow leak, what a break! Mass ended just before dark, so we had to worry about getting home on our own now from the front. . .

By now it was completely dark, we couldn't use our light (only blackout lights) and we had a tire that was becoming more flat as we rode over the rough roads. . .

We couldn't stop moving because there wasn't a soul around these roads. Half the time we didn't know if we were driving in enemy territory or our own. . . It was extremely difficult with a tire flat, being ripped to shreds, and without lights. I had to guide Remy along the road as best I could. After over an hour of this kind of driving, we finally came by Division Special Services. I don't know how we landed there but that's what happened.

However, the greatest thing of all that happened to us was all four of us were given the opportunity to attend five Masses on Easter Sunday. We sang at all of the Masses and I am proud to say that the fellows did a swell job. We sang mostly Gregorian—"Salve Regina," "Ave Maria" and "Veni Creator Spiritus."

This brought a little of the true Easter Spirit right up to the front with the men. It was wonderful to know that the enemy is never too great to prevent Christ from visiting our men. A lot of times I felt that Our Lord was making sure that nothing harmed us along the way.

SYLVESTER F. GIERANOWSKI

South Bend — More than 40 priests from South Bend, Mishawaka and northern Indiana parishes attended the funeral of Sylvester F. Gieranowski, the father of Rev. William Gieranowski, assistant pastor of St. Thomas Moore church, Munster, and former assistant of St. Adalbert's church here.

The funeral was held last Saturday at 10 a.m. in St. Adalbert's church, which Mr. Gieranowski had served for years as secretary of the board of church trustees and representative in the Polish-American Central Civic committee.

Father Gieranowski officiated at the solemn Requiem Mass, assisted by the Rev. Richard Smith, assistant pastor of St. Joseph's church, Mishawaka, as deacon; the Rev. Anthony Balczun, assistant pastor of St. Mary's church, Hammond, as subdeacon, and Rev. John J. Jakubielski, assistant pastor of St. Adalbert's, as master of ceremonies. Very Rev. Msgr. Ignatius J. Gapezynski, pastor of St. Adalbert's, was in the sanctuary.

The honorary pallbearers were former members of St. Adalbert's board of church trustees who had served with Mr. Gieranowski: Frank Osowski, Stanley Grzesiak, Leon Niegodzik, Joseph Gadacz, Chester Lisek and John Szuba.

The actual pallbearers were the present members of the board, Michael Sciba, Joseph Moskwinski, Harry Makowski, Casimir Lisek, Thaddeus Sparzynski and Edward Kowalski.

Burial was in St. Joseph Polish cemetery.

HENRY J. MILLER

(Protestants and Other Americans United).

You would appreciate Our Sunday Visitor more than you do, if you had lived with it through these 40 years and had seen how it helped the American cause as much as it has helped religion.

Many persons who during the past few years, have been under investigation by Congressional Committees, by Senate Committees, by the F.B.I. were listed in this paper 15 years ago as giving encouragement to the enemy. It might be said in passing, that Paul Blanshard was one of these fellows, as were several Protestant bishops who are still alive. Information about them was sent to us by clergymen of their respective churches.

The special mission of Our Sunday Visitor has always been "to serve the Church." That we have done not only by instructing Catholics, but by getting, with the help of our readers, the truth about the Church to non-Catholics. Among our regular readers today we count more than 50,000 non-Catholics.

JOSEPH W. MEHRING is general manager of Our Sunday Visitor Press. In his 39th year of service, he is shown here with members of the staff who handle general business matters, payroll and auditing.

We have maintained for many years that Our Sunday Visitor has the most loyal family of readers of any publication in the nation. We appreciate their support and their friendship.

If you would give O.S.V. an anniversary gift, make it in the form of a subscription for a non-Catholic friend. The cost is $2.00 per year — a small sum.

which could result in a conversion to the Church.

With a fervent prayer for every reader on the occasion of our fortieth anniversary, we are

Sincerely yours in Christ,

John Francis Noll

News And Notes On Books

Conducted By Virginia Beck Smith

Briefs:

PAUL BLANSHARD has a twin brother, Brand, who is a professor of philosophy at Yale. He is this year's Gifford lecturer at St. Andrew's University in Edinburgh. While in Scotland he teed off against the Church with the anti-Catholic vigor of his brother. He seems to take as many occasions, likewise, to castigate Catholicism.

In a recent review of Bertrand Russell's newest, New Hopes for a Changing World, he quotes the English philosopher to the effect that the conflict between man and nature is being won. What stands in the way of a solution of the conflict between man and man is over-population. The solution, of course, for Russell, is birth control, and Catholic opposition to it is bigotry.

Both Mr. Brand Blanshard and Mr. Russell would find enlightenment, if they chose, in two new books on the subject of over-population and hunger. The first is The Geography of Hunger by Josue de Castro, chairman of the Executive Council, United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization.

Dr. de Castro produces statistics to prove that there need not be starvation if scientific methods are used on under-developed and misused land. Of fifty percent of the world's arable land, he states, only ten per cent is now utilized. He blames distribution, rather than faulty production, and maintains that the over-all problem is a political one since hunger is a phenomenon of organized society. "The road to survival," he writes, "does not lie in the neo-Malthusian prescriptions to eliminate surplus people, nor in birth control. Such defeatist and disintegrative conceptions can only point the way to death, to revolution and to war—the road to perdition."

The other book is Robert Britain's Let There Be Bread. Here, the author shows how food can be grown in the Arctic and Sahara; that the population of New York could be fed on the same amount as rats eat in the U.S.; and that the teeming populations of Asia will dwindle when the Far East attains the same standard of living as the West.

Tomorrow's Memories, by Joseph D. Ayd, Dodd, Mead and Co., New York, pp. 247, $2.50.

FATHER AYD's story of the life of a high school senior at a Catholic academy has a surprise ending for everybody but God. Ruth Sterner, the heroine, is an attractive, popular girl who loves to dance, has as many dates as she can handle, and no special affinity to books. In fact her ability to get along with boys is much better than her popularity with her Latin teacher.

Her social calendar is considerably more interesting than her report card, featuring enough football games and school dances to make her life look like the ideal set-up in any teen-ager's book. But to Ruth, as happily involved in it as she was, it was not enough. The persistent whisperings of grace suggested that she might have a religious vocation. Finally she decides that she must be a nun. There is no sudden and sentimental reconciliation with the Latin teacher, and she continues dating until the last night before entering the convent.

Teen-age girls will read Ruth's story because she is so much like themselves. They will like it because Ruth does not wear the postulant's habit in the first chapter. All of them will be moved by the fact that she is about to wear it in the last chapter. Ruth is a girl to admire. Father Ayd has succeeded in making her and the vocation she chose attractive. His novel shows effectively how a spirited American girl can pack the spiritual potential for the religious life.

Adolescent Conflicts, edited by the Rev. Theodore Vittoria, S. S. P., Canfield, Ohio, pp. 189, $2.25.

FOR those engaged in the guidance of youth, this manual is a worthwhile addition to the literature on the subject. It is a compilation of essays by notable Catholic experts on the subject of adolescence which Dr. Rudolph Allers terms a period which "is essentially one of troubles and problems."

There is an introduction by the Rev. Paul E. Campbell, editor of The Catholic Educator, and chapters by the Revs. Anthony N. Fuerst, James A. Magner, Daniel A. Lord, Edgar Schmiedeler, Edward P. Cronan, John A. O'Brien, James P. Conroy, and Joseph E. Schieder. Parents should also find in this book helps in understanding and handling their confused and confusing teen-age children. The style of each of the writers is easily readable.

Home Book of Beauty and Charm, by Sally Young, Prentice-Hall, New York pp. 168, $3.98.

SALLY YOUNG writes a column in The American Weekly on a subject of universal appeal to women: the ways to beauty. She has now gathered these hints to good grooming in an over-size book of the dimensions of a small town telephone book. Its main advantage is that it suggests inexpensive and simple methods of approaching beauty parlor perfection.

The hints are valuable from a selective, take-or-leave standpoint. To use them all would require more leisure than anyone can afford, not to mention misuse of time, with all due consideration for the feminine mandate of looking as attractive as possible.

Editors' views on current events and others' comments

O.S.V.'s Birthday

THOUSANDS of parents of present-day steady patrons of Our Sunday Visitor have been regular readers of it since it was first launched on May 5, 1912.

Hundreds of them have written us that Sunday would not be the same if this paper did not pay its customary visit to their homes, they say they would rather miss their principal Sunday meal than miss Our Sunday Visitor.

We are grateful for this 40-year period of stand-by encouragement, appreciation and patronage.

We also are grateful to the many pastors, now in the late autumn of their lives, who have been staunch supporters and zealous promoters of Our Sunday Visitor from the beginning.

Those who do file each copy—as all should do if they do not pass on their paper to others to read—write us even now that they have been able, with our help, to give convincing answers to enemies and critics of the Catholic religion of any type.

If you kept a file of this paper, even only for one year, after reading every one of the 52 numbers, you would have reviewed the Catechism you studied in the grade and high schools, and observed how religious facts you were then told but which you then did not comprehend, can be explained in a simple yet very convincing manner to others.

You are asked questions about the doctrines of the Church, about Spain and Franco, about sending a United States ambassador to the Vatican, about bus transportation of children attending non-public schools, even about the use of the public schools by Protestant youth organizations, despite a Supreme Court decision forbidding such use of the schools. In fact there are hundreds of other questions for which you would have the ready answers if you had a file of copies or clippings from O.S.V. to consult.

Help Sell O.S.V.

The circulation of O.S.V. could be increased fivefold in many parishes if members of a parish society or even the school children were appointed to distribute it among the people. Experience has proved that when the paper is merely placed in a pamphlet rack or on a table in the church vestibule, only the best Catholics—those who need the paper least—will go out of their way to buy it.

But all can be reached if men are stationed at the last pew of each aisle and hand a copy of O.S.V. to one member of each family as the people leave the church after Mass. Other men stationed at the outer doors of the church can accept contributions for the papers. Where this method of sales is used full coverage of the parish is achieved, and contributions for the paper average almost 10 cents per copy—a worthwhile profit for the parish charities.

In many cities the St. Vincent de Paul Society members are the best salesmen for Our Sunday Visitor because it is their principal source of revenue.

The best readers of O.S.V. are always the best readers of their own diocesan newspapers. Our paper is a complement or supplement to the newspaper, not a competitor of it.

We have received over the years, a vast amount of evidence, which would convince anybody, that practically every Catholic publication has benefited by the circulation of Our Sunday Visitor. In short, in at least two thirds of all Catholic homes, the only paper which was received for several years, was Our Sunday Visitor. Then came the local paper, support for which our editors always encouraged. Then came one of the various Catholic magazines.

There are still plenty of homes whose members do not read anything Catholic very thoroughly, even though they are encouraged to subscribe to some Catholic papers and periodicals. Their taste must be cultivated, and it is best cultivated by a paper of small size which contains a great deal of religious and spiritual instructive material. Catholic publications today serve a larger subscription list than ever before in this country, and O.S.V. is generally accorded credit for much of the success of the press.

Bishops Ask Prayers For Reds' Victims

THE Archbishops and Bishops of the Administrative Board of the National Catholic Welfare Conference have called upon all of the faithful in the United States to pray for their fellow Catholics who are being persecuted in Communist-ruled nations. Noting that more and more people are constantly being called upon to suffer for their faith, the prelates urge that Catholics "renew their prayers for all Catholics and non-Catholics alike, who bear the heavy burden of tyranny."

The request of the Bishops was made as they gathered in Washington for the annual Spring meeting of the N.C.W.C. Administrative Board. They expressed their "deep sympathy" for those suffering for their faith, and prayed God to "support them in their suffering and strengthen them in their resistance to the forces of evil."

The Bishops said that their sympathies go out "particularly to our fellow Catholics in China." They noted that there 77 bishops and other heads of sees, including 12 Americans, have been imprisoned, are under arrest, or have been

ALL CHILDREN OF MARY!

HOW MUCH YOU CAN DO for these tots lovingly placed under the protection of those other Madonnas, our Sisters. For $10 you give them a food package. Your $1 monthly for ORPHAN'S BREAD is rare gold for them. And have you thought of placing your own dear family under the guidance of Mary during her month of May? Your $5 offering for family membership in the Association goes to our missionaries. Any and every gift delights Our Lady.

DID OUR LORD?

Did Our Lord institute the Blessed Sacrament primarily for His Mother, so that she would not be lonely when He ascended into Heaven? How Mary will be pleased with your gift of ten dollars to outfit an orphan child for first Communion—the happiest day!

NOT TOO LATE

It is not too late to send our beautiful three color GIFT CARD to your own dear Mother for her special day, MOTHER'S DAY. Not if you write at once. It will tell her a Near East missionary is offering Mass for her on her day.

FORTRESS OF FATIMA

You will be wanting to make special gifts to Our Lady during May. Perhaps you will add a mite to our fund for the SHRINE CHAPEL OF OUR LADY OF FATIMA, which we hope to build soon in India. RIGHT now we are hoping that kind friends will donate the two side altars, each costing $100, or that some dear client of Our Lady of the Blessed Sacrament will give the special chalice, costing $100. Surely Our Lady will love a new Shrine among her poor.

GOD'S WANT AD

Father Dunn sends us the story of his kindergarten for refugee children at Dbaye in Lebanon: "I started with 75 just a month ago. Today I have 200, all homeless kiddies. Won't you ask our Near East friends to help me feed and shelter them?" We know you will help them.

GEORGE YOURS?

From far off Jerusalem comes the plea that someone adopt a young man named George in St. Anne's Seminary and make his way to the priesthood possible. He has just five years more and he will need $500, which may be paid in any amounts. Can you adopt George?

Father Conroy Talking

Youth Section Of O.S.V. Has Glorious History Of Its Own

MOST people who come to observe their 40th birthday like to tone down the fact, if all possible. The mere thought seems to send a cold chill up and down the spine.

Not so, with Our Sunday Visitor, however. As you will notice in these pages, it is celebrating its 40th birthday. And just how far it has come, the national Catholic weekly has reached into the lives of Catholic people in some 2,080 issues over the 40 years, can best be summed up in the words of a Dayton, Ohio reader with whom I was talking a few days ago. Said she: "You know, Father, there are just two kinds of Catholics. Those who read Our Sunday Visitor and those who don't."

So today, if there is anything at all going up and down our spines it is a thrill rather than a chill.

The Youth Section is just a teenager's thought, and I suppose that will give it something in common with the many teen-agers who are doing it "steady" every week. It was in 1939 that Bishop Noll, founding editor of Our Sunday Visitor, decided to include a special section for the guidance of Catholics (and many non-Catholic) youth. This meant doubling the size of the paper—from eight to 16 pages. War-time restrictions on the use of paper forced a reduction to our present 12 pages. But Bishop Noll thought it eminently worthwhile and in 13 years his wisdom has borne real fruit.

With its appeal to children in the grades, to high school and college youth, to the young unmarried group, to Servicemen and women, the Youth Section is a "must" with nearly a million such readers.

The Youth Section also has many "habitats"—parents, teachers and those in charge of Catholic youth programs. These find it invaluable in giving informed leadership to youth at a time when youth is otherwise being led very blindly. As a result parents find it useful to read portions of the Youth Section to their children from time to time, or see that their children read it. (The present Ambassador of Ireland told me that his sons have orders to read the Youth Section every week and that he frequently checks them on their "duty.") In addition to this Our Sunday Visitor is required reading for religion classes in practically all Catholic high schools throughout the land.

Helps Youth Groups

The Youth Section has not only served youth as individuals. It has also boosted and assisted all worthwhile youth organizations and movements particularly those of national interest. In the files of Our Sunday Visitor will be found thorough descriptions of Catholic youth work in all its phases. This would include the Catholic schools, Catholic Youth Organizations, The Sodality, Young Christian Workers, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, and many others.

More recently the FIGHTING 69th, a youth movement to promote the spirit of the 6th and 9th Commandments, was introduced to the youth of America through the Youth Section of Our Sunday Visitor. In a little over three years more than a half-million Catholic youth of high school age and above, plus hundreds of servicemen and women have enlisted in the FIGHTING 69th, and the number continues to grow by the day.

Currently, the Youth Section is pushing a nation-wide novena to St. Mary Goretti who has been designated by the Holy Father as "patroness of modern youth." The novena is set to begin on June 28 and end on her feastday, July 6th. For information on the novena and the FIGHTING 69th write to Father Conroy care of Our Sunday Visitor.

No review of the work of the Youth Section would be complete without mentioning at least a few of the names of persons who were at one time or another associated with it. Readers will have no difficulty in recalling Miss Tess Marie Gorka and Miss Peg O'Connor, formerly of the staff. Nor will they soon forget Father Frank Gartland, C.S.C. now editor of the Catholic Boy, who rendered such noble assistance to the men of the Armed Forces through his Servicemen's page and other writings.

Also, there was Father R. J. Grimm, C.S.C. and Father John Lynch, C.S.C., who assisted Father Gartland. Then there was Father "Vince" Mooney, C.S.C., who for years served as an advisor to the Youth Section. And last but not least, we had and still have Father Daniel Lord, S.J., known to millions of American Catholic youth for his work in their behalf. Your present columnist is honored to follow in the footsteps of this yeoman group.

Well there's 13 years—but it's part of the 40. There is much more to say, but honestly we are still looking forward to the future.

We join with the editors in thanking all those faithful readers both living and dead who through the years have supported Our Sunday Visitor in such loyal fashion. Without them the work of spreading Catholic Truth could not have gone forward as it did. So—onward we go. "Life begins at 40."

Gospel Story

Life's Little While

ALBERTA SCHUMACHER

"NANCY, dear, why are you stretching your neck like that? All evening you've been doing it. Then you get all popped while you touch your neck with your fingers."

"That's it!" Nancy Blake said triumphantly. "That's a symptom!"

"What is a symptom?" her husband demanded.

"When you have a goitre your eyes get all poppy. Edith Grier said so. Besides, it explains everything."

"Well, so far nothing has been explained to me. Now suppose we start at the beginning, Nancy."

"John, you know how I'm always hurrying. Busses never travel fast enough for me. I always have the urge to get off and run. I rush, rush, rush through all my days. I can't bear to slow down. People with goitre act like that. Their thyroid is all speeded up. Don't you laugh at me, John Blake. It's not funny. It's a tragedy. Even if you don't mind the way I'll have to suffer, think of the hospital bills."

"Hospital bills! Now look, Nancy, are you pulling my leg?"

"I'm serious. Something is causing me to be all speeded up. It may not be goitre, but Edith thinks it is."

"Well, call the doctor and make an appointment. Don't just 'stew around' about it. I'll call him for you."

John called the doctor and got an appointment for the following afternoon. The evening wasn't a happy one, so they retired early. By morning even John felt anxious. It was true that Nancy was forever hurrying. It could be that something was wrong with her health. She seemed well though...

Nancy was on time for her appointment. The waiting room was full. Naturally she thought that when the nurse opened the door—it was time for her to enter the "inner sanctum." She got to her feet, but the nurse said, "I'm sorry, Mrs. Blake, but our schedule is running a little behind today. There are four ladies ahead of you yet."

Nancy sighed and looked for something to read. The late issues were all taken. She could choose between some obsolete ones or a very looking little book. She looked at the old magazines in distaste, then with quickening interest. The meditations were capsule size and surprisingly potent. She came to a complete standstill on the fifteenth page. She had found herself... "hurrying through life as if this life were the end"... surprisingly potent. She came to "never taking time to pray and think of eternal things"... "worrying about getting tomorrow's work done today when today might be the only day she would have to prepare herself to meet her Maker"... "hurrying to hell!"

That last phrase made her wince. This book was full of mighty plain speaking. Practical, too, for it said a physical check-up sometimes revealed bodily causes for spiritual unrest. Now

Three Hail Mary's For

Real Queen Of The May

CECILIA WADE

Dear Jane:

AREN'T little sisters quaint? Marj's 12-year-old sis was—of all things!—Queen of the May. Yes, the same Susie who had long braids, only she has a "poodle" cut now. Her freckles are with her still, only her face seems larger and her freckles less numerous because of it. Anyway, Susie donned a long white dress and was Queen of the May at her school. The girls danced around a May-pole and all that sort of thing.

I tried to explain to Marj about our Queen of the May, the Blessed Virgin Mary. I told her how we always have a girl chosen to crown the Blessed Virgin, and how we decorate May altars in our homes all through the month. I wanted her to come with me, and she was half-inclined, but then something else came up and she didn't. I keep inviting her to things, because I know she longs for just the security we have.

For instance, we pray the three Hail Mary's each morning and ask Mary to keep us from committing any sins during the day. We pray three more at night, and ask her protection from sin then, too. Then there are all the times of danger during the day when we call on Mary for quick, sure protection.

How do people get along without Mary, Jane? I just don't understand it. You know, I always ask her each day to take care of my non-Catholic friends who do not know her, too. Maybe lots of other Catholics do the same, and Mary helps even those who never acknowledge her part in their lives.

I asked Marj to practice praying the three Hail Mary's each morning. She wanted to know if that would be right for her when she isn't sure she believes in Mary's help. I told her to ask Mary to teach her to believe and to love. If all non-Catholics would agree to do that, then very soon they would be Catholic, too. Mary would see to that.

Marj isn't the most talkative type, and I try to read her actions to see when I am getting somewhere. She hasn't come right out and said the Hail Mary's were helping her, but she brought the prettiest bouquet of flowers for my May altar. Now if she would just make one of her own—and she may, you know. I'm hoping and praying. Do try to get your non-Catholic friends to pray the three Hail Mary's each morning, too. Make our Queen of the May known to all.

Till next week,
Your friend,
Anne

The old principles of friendship and mutual helpfulness will thus benefit you, as they have thousands of others in years past and as they are now serving over 170,000 present members of the Order.

This insurance is written to meet your individual needs—to provide money, when you die, to protect your family from need and want and to furnish many of the things you provided while you were living. In this way, you can also provide money for the payment of a mortgage on your home, and for the education of your children.

This insurance is available exclusively for practical Roman Catholic men and boys. Because the Order is the organization of its membership and not an institution to make money for others, your insurance protection is furnished at the lowest cost consistent with safety and permanency.

Give your loved ones this protection and security. Make sure their financial needs will be provided for in a friendly, helpful way. Mail the coupon for full information about the Order and the benefits it offers you.

THE PRESENT HOME OF Our Sunday Visitor was erected in 1925. It was completed less than two months before Bishop Noll was appointed to the Diocese of Fort Wayne. During the past four years a continuous building and remodeling program has been carried on. More than 40,000 square feet of floor space have been added for the printing rooms and offices. O.S.V. has also purchased another large building several blocks from its main plant, which is used for storage purposes.

On Being Profane

You Have To Believe In God To Insult Him

JOSEPH A. BREIG

I HAVE NEVER in all my life heard anybody shouting, in a fit of hatred, "Jupiter damn you!" I have never heard anybody screaming in anger "Zeus!"

The old false gods are safe from profanation, because they are false! The old false gods are never blasphemed, because they are as dead as the dodo.

And the new false gods are safe, too.

You will never hear a Communist, upon hitting his thumb with a hammer roaring, "Lenin!" He knows that Lenin is merely a dead man, preserved like a pickle in Red Square.

You will never hear a planned parenthooder screeching "Sanger!" at some playing child who, having managed to get born in spite of her, has run across her lawn or broken one of her windows.

The planned parenthooder knows that Mrs. Sanger is simply a woman. She is not the sacred stuff of which blasphemy is made.

Lenin is a man, Sanger is a woman, and Jupiter is a myth.

But the Living God is no myth. And His only-begotten Son, Jesus Christ, is no myth.

The living God is a reality so wonderful and so awful that His Name, uttered in the wrong way, is like a blow from a club.

The Risen Jesus Christ is a divine and human Being so overwhelmingly holy that the very syllables by which we refer to Him can be like rocks flung from a catapult.

But all this is true only where there is some kind of faith. In some way, you have to believe in God; in some sense, you've got to be a religious person, before profanity will mean enough to you to tempt you.

This is the strange paradox of profanity and blasphemy; that they demand for their effectiveness a certain religious background. The man who insults God is the man who knows that there is a God to be insulted, and that He ought not to be insulted. The man who uses the Holy Name for cursing is the man who knows that it can only be rightly used for blessing.

The secret of getting men to reverence God is to get them to know God and to love Him, not merely to believe in Him.

For if men once come to know God and to love Him, they will certainly serve Him. And when humanity comes around to serving God, this battered and beaten world will become an anteroom to Heaven. — Paulist Information Service.

Father Quiz on matters Catholic

YOU recently stated in your weekly Chat that: "The teaching of the Church is that faith is a gift of God, and hence we do not know the reason why He gives this wonderful gift to some and withholds it from others." If God is just and "desires all men to be saved," why should He withhold the grace of faith from some?

That is one of the great mysteries of religion. There are probably millions of people in the world who, if they had the gift of faith, would use it better than those whose parents had them baptized and reared in the faith.

God tells us that because He is God and owes nothing to anybody, He can give to those whom He wishes and withhold from those to whom He does not wish to give.

We cannot, of course, accuse an infinitely perfect Being of injustice. God, as St. Paul says, desires that all men should be saved and come to the knowledge of the truth. If that be God's will then He must make it possible, but that is as far as He must go.

No one will lose his soul because of lack of knowledge of the true faith, unless his ignorance was wilful. One who has arrived at certain convictions—even the pagan—and observes the moral law as even nature requires it to be observed, can be saved, even if it should not be according to God's plan of salvation. God gives the opportunity to people to find the truth. The majority seem not to concern themselves about it. But every one who does strive to learn God's plan of salvation and prays while he searches, will find it.

The very fact that faith is a "gift" suggests that we have no claim or right to it. It would not be a gift if God owed it to us.

Because it is a gift we should pray for it if we are not already absolutely certain that we have it.

Where is the national headquarters of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine? Are all discussion clubs organized under its program?

The headquarters of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine is located in the building of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, 1312 Massachusetts Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C.

With Ink And Crozier

THE story of Our Sunday Visitor is largely the story of Bishop Noll and his works. And, as His Eminence Cardinal Samuel Stritch of Chicago puts it, the story of Bishop Noll is the story of the Church in action in the U.S.

This story is told in Father Richard Ginder's book "With Ink and Crozier," to be published in three weeks by Our Sunday Visitor Press. Orders are being accepted now. The cloth bound edition is $2.50; durable paper binding, $1.50. Order from Our Sunday Visitor, Huntington, Indiana.

Not all discussion clubs are organized under the program, as you put it, of the Confraternity, but all would be at least indirectly carrying on some of the work of the Confraternity. Many publishers, including Our Sunday Visitor Press publish pamphlets and books especially prepared for use by discussion groups. Write for free catalogue.

Who is the director of the society of the Church that helps foreign missions, like those in China where there is so much suffering now that the Reds seem to be taking over?

The director of the principal foreign mission society is Bishop Fulton J. Sheen. He is national director of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith. See his "God Love You" column on this page.

Is it possible for a Catholic to be married to another Catholic without having announcements made from the parish churches?

You have reference to the publication of the banns of marriage. In certain circumstances a dispensation from the publication of the banns can be obtained. Consult your pastor. But why seek to avoid them?

GOD LOVE YOU

YOU may be surrounded with the light of the sun, but although it is noon-day, if you persist in closing your eyes, it is the same as though there were no sun. And if you persist in banishing God from your thoughts, it is the same as if there were no God. . . . GOD LOVE YOU to A. D. whose $50 was accompanied with the remark: "The only place I know where an investment is safe is with the Holy Father's Missions." . . . JAPAN: Out of 134 students applying for admission to a Catholic girl's school, only 6 were Catholics. The reason given by the parents of 58 was they wanted their children "to have a religious education." . . . GOD LOVE YOU to Miss C. G. for $6 saved for the Holy Father's Missions by walking to work. . . . It is not often that the two devotions—prayers and alms—can be combined. Those who send a $2 offering with a request for the World Mission Rosary to 109 E. 38th St., New York 16, will receive one blessed by me. . . . GOD LOVE YOU to M. C. S. whose $5 for the Holy Father's Missions was sacrificed from her 4 C's—cocktails, candies, cokes and cones.

It is harder to deny proud self than sinful self, but both can be overcome by a sacrifice to save a pagan soul. . . . GOD LOVE YOU to Mrs. L. F. H. who put $5 on the Holy Father's Missions instead of on her head for a hat. . . . One of our missionaries visiting a savage people for the first time was met with a shower of spears and arrows. To show he was not afraid, he kept dodging and moving forward shouting: "Hi Joe, Hi Jim." He got close enough to show them a mirror. It was the first time they ever saw themselves. Now they are being converted. We would like to SEE you help them. . . . GOD LOVE YOU to Cpl. V. H. T. who writes: "Here is $26 for the Holy Father's Missions which was intended for a portable radio." . . . "My colored vestments are spotted and soiled beyond repair: I wear black every day for Mass and our Catholics here think our religion is all sorrowful," writes a priest from Africa. Will someone send a $60 reminder of the Joyous Mysteries? . . . GOD LOVE YOU to Mrs. N. E. G. who sent the $20 to the Holy Father's Missions she promised if she obtained a job in a certain city.

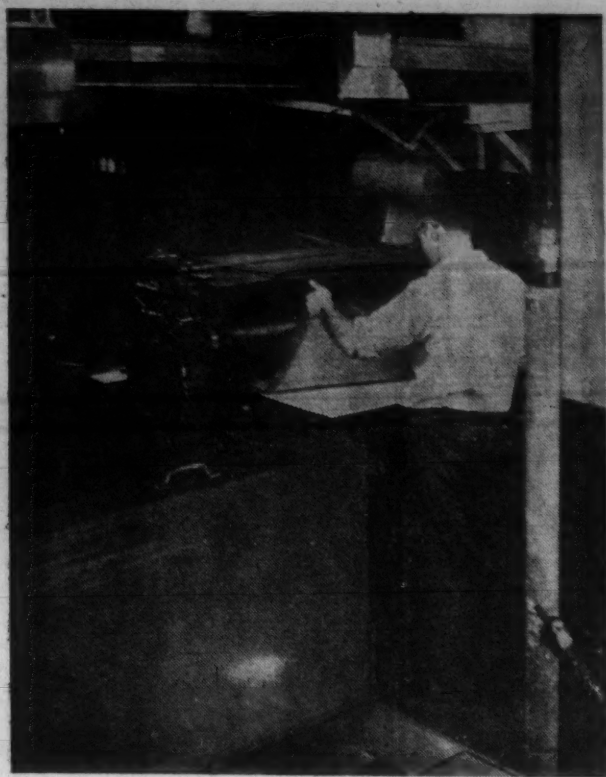

The Holy Father's Missions establishes a fellowship of those who bear the marks of sacrifice with those who bear the marks of pain. . . . GOD LOVE YOU to K. and B. D., two boys, who sent $7 to the Holy Father's Missions they intended to use for skates and a cowboy suit. . . . The Communists in China admit the Independent Church Movement has failed. This was a Church without the Holy Father. The Communists were willing to name a Bishop as the China Pope, but he refused to the point of death! If the Chinese Catholics faced death rather than deny the Holy Father, may we be inspired to sacrifice for his missions. . . . GOD LOVE YOU to Father H. J. V. whose $50 was sacrificed from a "super-duper vacation." . . . In Kyoto, Japan, the Legion of Mary in the course of a few months made more than 14,000 visits to more than 4,000 pagan families. . . . GOD LOVE YOU to 11 year old T. L. whose $10 was made up from spending money and 5c fines for "making a slip" in manners.

The Holy Father carries the heaviest burden of any man alive. Alms for the missions that He loves are the best tonic He can get on any day. Your gift to relieve the Holy Father's burden can be pinned to this column and mailed to His own representative in the U. S.—the Most Rev. Fulton J. Sheen, National Director of The Society for the Propagation of the Faith, 109 E. 38th St., New York 16, N. Y. or your Diocesan Director.

If your Dad had been a pole vaulter, and had broken the world's record at the event, you would naturally be of the opinion that he was a pretty good man at the feat which requires the use of a pole to soar into space. And, of course, you would be correct in such a deduction. At the same time, if you in turn happened to vault exactly eight and two-thirds inches higher than what your Dad did in setting a world mark, you would kind of think that there season, he suffered a touch of pneumonia, and was sidelined until the start of the present outdoor season.

The Irish opened outdoors by sending a couple of relay quartets to compete in the Texas Relays, and also brought Harrington along. He tied for second down in Austin, on the University of Texas campus, with a vault of 13 feet. Then came the real start of the outdoor Notre Dame season as the Irish entertained Indiana and Purdue in a triangular get-together on Cartier Field. Indiana happened to win the meet with Notre Dame second, but that is aside from the point, because it is the doings of young Harrington I'm talking about.

Now, although this was an outdoor triangular meet, weather conditions had prevented the pits used in the high jump and pole vault from being ready and these two events were held indoors in the Notre Dame fieldhouse. The crowd was out on Cartier Field as was natural since it was billed as an outdoor meet. Also, taking place on Cartier Field was a Notre Dame baseball game with Ohio State.

Harrington easily won the pole vault and then kept going as he sought a new Notre Dame indoor and Notre Dame fieldhouse record. He broke both records when he cleared 13 feet 9 3/4 inches, and by actual count there were nine witnesses present as he went over the bar. It was also the greatest vault ever made by a Notre Dame indoors or outdoors.

It probably comes under sports' oddities that Harrington set a new Notre Dame indoor record while supposedly competing in an outdoor meet.

There is another likeness between father and son among the Harringtons, aside from pole vaulting. The senior member was valedictorian of his graduating class, and young Jim is currently an outstanding student while majoring in chemical engineering.

Never write or speak on something you do not have at least a smattering of knowledge about... That is a feeling I've always had, although I'm sure I have not always followed same. To a limited degree (very limited I know some readers will say), I can talk about sports.

For instance, I know that Ray Robinson set up Rocky Graziano with a left and then finished him with a right, on account of the fact that I was sitting in the second row at the fight which attracted the largest gathering ever to see a bout indoors.

But in the field of politics, statesmanship, government or whatever you want to call it, I know I should probably keep my big mouth shut. But I'm aware of what is going on. I do read the daily sheets on current news happenings in case you think I'm too lackadaisical. As for the steel industry, all I know is that steel is supposed to be a very tough substance. However, I did happen to hear the President of the United States speak on the radio concerning the steel situation. The next night I heard another gentleman talk on the same subject and emphasize how the President was all wrong. I do not know who was correct. But even in poorly-written sports column such as this, I like to point out what a wonderful democratic country this is when anybody who so desires can stand up and disagree with the President. We should be most thankful that we are living in the United States of America.

Possibly the inspiration for the above comes from the fact that I was born and brought up in Lexington, Mass. On the Battle Green in that town, where 177 years ago, last April 19, was "fired the shot heard round the world" there is an inscription on the flagpole: "Birthplace of American Liberty." Living in that town today, and I should add, thank God, is the most wonderful Mother in the world. So, with Mother's Day coming up next Sunday, I sign off by saying... Happy Mother's Day, Mom.

Chats Out Of Church

FATHER RAY GRIBBIN

IN almost everyone's house, I think, there is a picture of Grandma. It was taken when she was a young girl. Now, of course, it is very old and it has begun to fade. It is not black anymore, but a kind of yellowish brown, and, unless it is in a frame, the edges are probably torn.

But your mother (if we are talking about your house) will she was back to goitre symptoms again, in her mind, not in the book.

"Mrs. Blake, doctor will see you now..."

The examination was lengthy and thorough. The verdict was reassuring. Nancy felt like flying home to tell her husband she was all right. Instead she made herself walk slowly enough to see things along the way. She glanced at the sky and thanked God for its blue. She took time to whisper a prayer for a crippled old man hovering miserably in a doorway. She gave a cheery greeting to a lonely-looking old woman, a complete stranger, and then felt happy as a Boy Scout afterward.

John was waiting anxiously, but when he saw her his frown turned to a grin. "You look positively glowing. It couldn't have been bad news."

They had a long talk then about the little book and the real goal in life, "to know, love, and serve God." "Life is such a little while, so don't hurry through it," Nancy said, and then added that she was quoting from the book. Then her eyes danced. "I think it's my ego that has had the goitre," she said. "It's my 'I complex' that has been all swelled up. Why, I had come to the point where I thought the world couldn't get along without me. I almost pushed people out of my way so I could go faster and farther. Well, there is just one answer to this modern disease of swollen ego—I'm going to spend more time on my knees learning to appreciate how great is God and how dependent I am on Him."

In today's Gospel—"What is this 'little while' of which He speaks?" the disciples asked. Let us ask ourselves today what is life but a little while in which to merit (or lose!) heaven. We can hurry to holiness by slowing down in worldly pursuits. It takes time to be holy.

A profession of faith in the Blessed Virgin is contained in "Mary the Mother of God," a book published in Stuttgart by the Rev. Hans Asmussen, distinguished Lutheran minister. His work points out that there can be no doctrine of salvation without Mary, for original sin and man's delivery through Christ cannot be understood if her part in the divine scheme of things is overlooked. "There is no Bible, without Mary," says the Lutheran scholar.—Anne Tansey.

never throw the picture away. "It is just the way your Grandmother must have looked," she says. "Think of it! Here is your own Grandmother when she was a girl." So the picture is dusted off and put away again.

Sometimes, though, you think of the picture. You take it out again to have another look at Grandma.

Of course, you know that what you have in your hand is only a picture. It is not Grandma herself. It is not the little girl who was once alive and who played, and sang, and went to school. That little girl grew up. She got married and had children. Then she died. And no one will ever really see her again until heaven.

Only God could make Grandma live again. Only God could make her to be really and truly present. And God will never do that for Grandma.

But what God does not and will not do for Grandma He does do for someone else. That Someone is His Son. It is Jesus, Our Lord.

Jesus, you know, was born in Bethlehem. He lived there, and in Egypt, and in Nazareth as a little child. He grew up. Then He was killed.

It seemed then as though the world had seen the real Jesus for the last time. But it had not. He rose up from the dead after only three days, and He was really present on earth again. He even stayed on earth for many weeks.

Finally, though, Jesus went to heaven. "Now," many people thought, "He will surely never again be really and truly on earth." But those people were wrong. Because a few days before He was killed Jesus gave His Apostles the Sacrament of the Eucharist. He gave them the power to make Him be really and truly alive on earth again.

Today the priest still uses God's power to do the same thing. He takes bread and wine and does what Jesus did to bread and wine at the Last Supper. He makes it become Jesus Himself!

Of course, the bread and wine do not look like Our Lord, even after the priest has used God's power to change them. But that doesn't make any difference. They really are Our Lord. After all, Grandma's picture looks like her, but it is not really what she looks like. It is still only a picture. Grandma is not really and truly present. In the Eucharist, then, what looks like bread is not really bread at all. It is Our Lord. And what looks like wine is not really wine at all. It is Our Lord.

He is as really present as He was in Bethlehem. He is as truly present as He was on Calvary. He is in the Eucharist as the very same Jesus Christ, the Son of God, who lived and suffered and died long ago.

vivid description. "But," he assured us, "they don't go after boys or girls," they prefer dogs and goats.

"When you get higher up in the mountains—some 5,000 feet, you have the rattle vipers: they are as deadly as a cobra, and they sleep under our bungalows. In cold months they crawl out in a sunny spot in the path and go to sleep. Snakes are gentlemen. A snake won't interfere with you if you leave him alone."

"A child must be husky to survive," he said. "Their main food is rice and black tea with salt or sugar, but no milk. Their parents eat rice curry and dal, which comes from a vegetable and resembles our thick pea soup. Their curry is like our mulligan stew, with potatoes, vegetables, red and green peppers and spices all cooked in oil which tastes very good indeed.

"You've probably heard of the Gurkha soldiers, the most famous among the Indian troops. They come from Nepal—they're short and stocky men and carry sharp, murderous-looking curved knives.

We know about quinine used to fight malaria. But Father adds to our knowledge. He said: "Quinine is made from the bark of the Synchona tree, and is used as a cure for malaria or other fevers." "The new drugs," he pointed out, "will prevent malaria, but once you get it, quinine is the only thing that will cure malaria. All the quinine for the east is made in the district of Dargeeling."

Would you like to know more about India through the months to come? Would you like to make friends with some Indian girls and boys?

Exchanging letters would be very interesting, don't you think? Our young readers who want to write to India, can address a letter to

Father William J. Mackey, S.J.
St. Alphonsus School, Kurseong, India

Letters from the girls Father Mackey promises to refer for answer to the Indian girls in a nearby school. The letters from the boys will be answered by Indian boys in St. Alphonsus School.

This seems to me a wonderful way of learning more about our neighbors in other lands. It's really very important for us to know more about each other, and to understand people whose ways are different from our own. And we might well consider that by exchanging letters we are doing on a personal level what we can to bring about world peace.

The letters for ordinary mail will take a six cent stamp and will reach India within two months. If you would like to send your letter by air mail, it will get there much faster; use a 25 cent stamp for the first half ounce. This will cover two sheets of thin paper.

It will be rather exciting, won't it, if later in the year we can publish in Our Sunday Visitor some of the letters you receive from your new found friends in India?

ACTS OF THE APOSTLES—CHAPTER 26

Back In Antioch

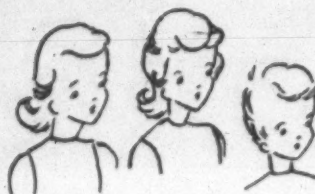

MARIGOLD HUNT

YOU can imagine how excited the people in Antioch were to see Paul and Barnabas after four years. And what a rush there was to hear all that had happened to them, where they had been, and what they had done. Mustn't it have been wonderful to hear them telling about all the countries they had visited and all the new churches they had established, and the adventures they had had? It must have seemed

I expect that journey took a good deal more than two weeks.

But at last they came to Jerusalem and there the first Council of the Church was held. You will read in history about other Councils of the Church. When there is any doubt about what the true teaching of Our Lord is on any particular point, the Pope, as you know, is the person who decides. But before he can decide he has to find out himself—he can't just guess! The best way to do that is to call a council of all the Bishops who can come and let everyone have his say.

Some Jewish Christians, who had been Pharisees before they were converted, came up to Antioch from Jerusalem and began telling the Christians there who were converts from paganism, "Of course you can't get to heaven just by being Christians—you must keep the law of Moses as well!"

Journey to Jerusalem

To make it worse they pretended the Apostles in Jerusalem had told them to say this. Poor Paul and Barnabas must have felt quite desperate—here was the same old trouble starting again, and this time inside the Church!

They argued and explained and explained and argued, but the Jewish Christians wouldn't be convinced, so at last they decided the only thing to do was to go to Jerusalem and ask the Apostles who were there please to settle this business once and for all. We know Peter, the head of the Church was in Jerusalem at that time, and so was James who was Bishop of Jerusalem, but whether there were any other Apostles there we don't know, because St. Luke doesn't tell us.

So Paul and Barnabas and some of the Christians from Antioch set out for Jerusalem, about two weeks' journey away. On their way they came to many places where there were Christians and at these they stopped to tell about their journey and how fast the Church was spreading over the world. Of course, these groups of Christians were very excited and pleased, and it must have made them feel that they were quite old Christians themselves. And to have Paul and Barnabas visiting them!

When the Pope has heard them all, he decides, and we know for certain he is right. Why? Because Our Lord promised that in anything to do with Faith and Morals He would never let the Pope lead His Church astray.

So this Council of Jerusalem is really a very important affair indeed, and I have taken so long to tell you how important it is that I shall have to wait till next week to tell you what happened at it.

There Is A Difference

"Jack feared neither God nor man. He took life as he found it and when he died it was with a merry laugh."

That quotation is from a magazine story about a young man who led a devil-may-care existence fashioned for him by a highly imaginative writer. He was the hero of a story replete with tough dialogue and violent action, with the hero coming to a violent end.

Anyone who has been brought up to respect God and his fellow-man will find it difficult to see anything heroic in a character who "feared neither God nor man," and who went to meet his Maker, not with a prayerful plea for mercy and forgiveness, but with "a merry laugh."

Quotations such as the above are common in present-day "literature." It reflects a paganism that is rampant in the world and against which parents must be on the alert, not only in the books and magazines read by their children, but also in the movies and television shows they watch and in the radio programs they hear. There is a vast difference between a pagan and a hero!—Victorian.

But one of the organizers of the FOAU was a former President of the Federal Council of Churches. Here is the statement issued by the National Education Association in the year 1924:

"The National Education Association, while recognizing the American public school as the great nursery of broad and tolerant citizenship and of a democratic brotherhood, acknowledges also the contributions made to education by private institutions and enterprises, and recognizes that citizens have the right to educate their children in either public or private schools when the educational standards of both are approved by the State educational authorities."

In the report that year of the Secretary of the Association even stronger language was used. He wrote:

"There is no fight directed toward the private or religious schools. There should be none. These institutions have their place and receive the encouragement of this Association. There are thousands of teachers in private schools in the membership of this Association."

These schools should have the respect of public school authorities. Great contributions to human betterment are made by both religious and secular private schools, as well as by our great system of public education. Our children and youth need these schools and many more.

"Along with the above fear there is found here and there among teachers the fear lest they be considered unscientific and somewhat religious if they should carry on any religious or moral work among students."

It will probably surprise many school superintendents and principals today to observe the following warning made in that statement:

"Since the great majority of our students of today are not receiving religious and moral instruction, there is growing up a generation lacking in the religious and moral qualities, which we deem necessary as qualifications for teachers. Our teachers are for the most part products of our public schools, and from the present student body, untaught and untrained in religion and morals, must come a large proportion of our future teachers. Unless we inaugurate a more universal program of character education in the public schools, the situation as to properly qualified teachers will continue to grow worse."

From the statistics and general statements given in the body of this study, we must conclude that the majority of the children and youth of the United States are today receiving only a modicum of that moral and religious preparation for living to which every child has a right.

Nation Of Criminals

The FBI has just sent out an analysis of its latest report to the press. It was dated Washington, April 20, and notes that the "National crime rates continued upward in 1951 with a 5.2% increase in cities and a 5% increase in rural areas." It quotes J. Edgar Hoover as saying that it expresses "A tragedy of our times," and again "More persons aged 23 were arrested than any other age group." Persons under 21 made up 14.4% (119,676) of all persons arrested during 1951.

"Arrests of persons under the age 18 increased 7.7% last year (37,259) compared with the previous year"—and note these are high school students.

Certainly the removal of all religion from education is not going to improve the situation. The FBI report for 1951 was considerably worse than that of 1950.

The President of Harvard says that "independent schools" cannot be democratic. Of course, they are the most democratic of all, since inalienable rights granted by the Creator, which constitute democracy, imply a religious foundation.

Hits Moral Bottom

Dr. Frederick C. Fowler, Pittsburgh, president of the National Association of Evangelicals, told the association's 10th annual convention in Chicago that materialistic education is to blame for "the moral collapse everywhere evident."

"What is the reason for immorality in the State Department where homosexuals were dismissed not for their sin but for security reasons?" he asked. "What is the reason for the corruption in the Internal Revenue and other departments of Government, for the admitted cheating in college examinations, and the other forms of immorality in the American scene?"

"It goes back to those so-called 'brilliant' educators, (who have) denied the very existence of God, and ruled out any final authority except their own ridiculous and assumed knowledge."

"You cannot disregard God and ignore His moral laws and not expect to reap a harvest of rottenness."

"Those who see no God behind the state," he declared, "are driven to exalt the state into a god, and to assert that in every case the will of the majority has a right to override the will of a minority, of a single person."

"When it is assumed that the state owes nothing to the will of a divine intelligence at the heart of things, that its authority is original and not delegated by God—you have laid the foundation of political despotism and religious intolerance."

Chinese proverb: Great men never feel great; small men never feel small.

Advertising manager of O.S.V. is Martin Greven. Little solicitation of advertising is done from our Huntington office. That is cared for by our representative Mr. C. D. Bertollet, who maintains his principal office in Chicago.

Other Publications

In addition to the 14 editions of O.S.V. we also edit, print and publish The Priest and The Family Digest. Editors of The Priest are Fathers G. J. Gustafson and Richard Ginder. F. A. Fink edits The Digest.

Our book and pamphlet department is kept busy with the printing of almost 2,000,000 products per year, ranging from vest-pocket size pamphlets of 16 or 32 pages to books of several hundred pages. Our headliners are Bishop Noll's "Father Smith Instructs Jackson" and Father O'Brien's "Faith of Millions." Both books are in constant demand and are the most widely used texts in the instruction of converts. Orders for each book average more than 1,000 copies per week.

In the large group picture on page one you will see our employees. We number 155 at the Huntington office. Total employment afforded by the publication of O.S.V. and its diocesan editions is about 270.

There's fascination in seeing our church collection envelope departments operate. We make and print more than 140,000,000 envelopes a year for some 5,000 pastors. (If somehow or other a dollar bill got into each of those envelopes the Church's financial worries in this country would be ended.)

This department is under the direction of our general manager, Joseph W. Mehling. Mechanically it is directed by Joseph Street in the making department and Clarence Dougherty in the printing department.

In observing its fortieth anniversary O.S.V. is proud to note that it still numbers among its workers three persons who were with Bishop Noll at the very beginning: John Wolter, plant superintendent and chief buyer; Clarence Dougherty and Catherine Freinstein.

There are many 25 and 20 year workers and there is little turnover among our employees. O.S.V. carries for each worker a complete insurance program giving protection in the event of accident, sickness or hospitalization. It also includes life insurance and a retirement fund.

The several departments of O.S.V. are all organized by the International Typographical Union and the Printing, Pressmen and Assistants' Union. I.T.U. members have manned our composing room for 40 years, and it gives us pleasure to note with a word of congratulations the 100th anniversary of that Union which is being observed on the same day we note our fortieth anniversary, May 5. The Pressmen and Assistants' Union was organized some years ago at the invitation of the O.S.V. management.

The home of Our Sunday Visitor is on U. S. Road 24 in downtown Huntington. Seeing it, many tourists drop in for a visit. We'd like to see you, should you pass our way soon.

expelled or otherwise gravely impeded in their exercise of their office.

The Bishops declared that a "new wave of terror" is being visited upon the Church in Czechoslovakia. "Even more terrible," they added, "has been the fate of the Church in Roumania, where the entire hierarchy has been liquidated; in Lithuania, whose bishops, priests and laity were among the first to feel the full lash of the new terror; in Albania, whose smaller number of Catholics, has tended to obscure the greatness of the sufferings endured. If in Poland the foes of the Church have been less dramatic, equally persistent and far more insidious have been the means used to win the people from their spiritual allegiance."

"We may well ask," the Bishops continued, "whether any decade in history has been more rich in martyrdom than our own."

The Bishops concluded their statement as follows: "In view of the sufferings to which all men of religious belief have been subjected, we beseech our fellow citizens to renew their prayers for all Catholics and non-Catholics alike, who bear the heavy burden of tyranny and are persecuted under a system of government which is the acknowledged enemy of all those decency which have been the special blessing of our own country."

Mother Who Made Her Son A Saint

He did; Augustine became a priest, then a bishop, and eventually one of the staunchest and most brilliant defenders of his Faith.

It was almost a thousand years later that people began to remember Monica and her feast was set on May 4th. When a church was built at Rome in honor of Augustine, the relics of Monica were placed in the same house of God, and devotion to Monica has grown steadily.

Little wonder that people find consolation in the life of Monica. Here is the familiar story of a woman with an evil-tempered husband, a nagging mother-in-law, and a wicked son, but who never lost her faith and her sweet disposition, and—who wound up by converting all three! At Mother's Day of 1952, the story of Monica is one to cheer us all.

The weasel and the ermine stand at opposite extremes in man's estimation, yet in reality there are the same animal. In the summer when its fur is a reddish-brown, it is called a weasel. In the winter when the cold changes its fur a yellowish-white, it is called an ermine.—Ave Maria.

Mary's Month

Give It All To Her

M. D. AMATOR

REFLECTING the beauties of nature on an early May morning, the sunbeam crystallizes myriads of diamonds on the dew-laden grass. Thus does the eternal Son of God reflect His endless glory in the myriads of spiritual dew-drops that daily fall from the hands of His Mother Mary upon the children of His mystical body.

In his renowned encyclical on the Blessed Virgin, Ad Diem Illum, Blessed Pius X wrote, "In one and the same womb of His most chaste Mother Christ both took flesh for Himself and united to Him His spiritual body, namely that composed of all who were to believe in Him. Thus, as Mary had the Savior in her womb, she can also be said to have borne all those whose life was contained in the life of the Savior."

"Therefore everyone of us who are united with Christ, inasmuch as, in the words of the Apostle (Eph. 5:30) we are members of His body, of His flesh, and His bones, has come from the womb of Mary, after the manner of a body united with its head. Whence, in a spiritual and mystical way, we are said to be the children of Mary, and she is the Mother of us all."

What more convincing argument could the Pope have given to mankind!

does Mary the spiritual Mother watch over the salvation of her children. All who are truly devoted to her, call upon her in every need, physical as well as spiritual, and from experience they know that she never says, "No."

Devotion to the Blessed Virgin Mary is as old as Christianity itself. Even during her life on earth, Mary's intercession with her Son brought a miracle to relieve the embarrassment of the wedding couple at Cana. Pictures and inscriptions in the catacombs prove the early Christians' devotion to her. As soon as Christian services emerged from underground, churches were erected to her honor, such as Old St. Mary's built by Pope Sylvester in the early fourth century; St. Mary Major's built in Rome in the early fifth century; and the cathedral of Ephesus in which the famous Council of Ephesus was held in 431.

Since the Council of Ephesus, devotion to the Mother of God was so widely spread that even today some heretical sects, such as the Jacobites, Nestorians, and Ethiopians extol Mary in their hymns and prayers.

The saints and Doctors of the Church in the early centuries, such as St. Gregory Nazianzen, St. Ambrose, St. Jerome, and St. Augustine, proposed Mary to the imitation of the faithful, and in their writings gave evidence of specific cases in which Mary came to the aid of persons who sought her. St. John Damascene declared, "Devotion to thee, O Mary, is the weapon of salvation."

'Age Of Mary'

The present time has often been referred to as "The Age of Mary." Increased devotion to the Blessed Virgin has been and is making progress; the crusades in many dioceses for the daily family rosary in the home; the five First Saturdays' Communion and 15 minutes' meditation on the mysteries of the rosary; the extended itineraries of the "Pilgrim Virgin" statue of Our Lady of Fatima, with numerous conversions and renewed fervor following in its wake; the wearing of the Scapular of Our Lady of Mount Carmel and the fulfillment of conditions for the Sabbatine privilege; these are but some of the sources of tangible evidence that more and more people are looking to Mary, for help, for world peace, for real happiness.

Yet, with all this upsurge of devotion to the Mother of God, it can still be said in the words of St. Louis, that Mary is not enough known. There are still thousands who cannot find time for the daily family rosary, who do not wear her scapular, who have never made the five First Saturdays.

The month of May is a good time for everyone who does know Mary to join in a crusade for the thousands who do not. With Our Sunday Visitor reaching into more than three-quarters of a million homes, there must be at least several millions of readers. Now if each one who reads this page would go all-out this month to get one more family to pledge the daily family rosary, or to wear Mary's scapular, or to go to daily Mass and Holy Communion whenever possible, or to read books on the Blessed Virgin, such as "True Devotion to Mary," "The Reign of Jesus Thru Mary," "The City of God: Mary," "Life of the Blessed Virgin," etc., etc., there would be millions more learning where to turn for true peace and happiness.

Why not start a Marian program in the home, and keep it going all month. Where there are children in the family, they can be given the task of outlining plans in detail. The first of these might be the construction of a little May Altar in the home, or an out-door shrine in the yard. Here the family might gather for the evening rosary, perhaps followed by the Litany of the Blessed Virgin and a hymn to Mary.

Certain of the children might look up some special reading material, from the various Catholic magazines, and plan a Marian evening once a week, for the purpose of studying more about Mary and also planning other projects within their abilities.

Some might make posters, suitable for display in public places. Each might endeavor to win at least one other person to the practice of some of the Marian devotions, and thus bring another soul closer to Christ through Mary.

Reminder For Next Week

A Mother Who Made Her Son A Saint

LOUIS C. FINK

WHEN Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia began to agitate for a Mother's Day back in 1908, she was doing it to honor her own mother, who had died the year before. Anna Jarvis took years to accomplish her goal, but she saw success for her idea.

Philadelphia observed the day on May 10th, 1908, and in 1912 the Governor of Texas began his custom of pardoning criminals on Mother's Day. Finally, in 1913, the House and Senate passed a joint resolution to make the second Sunday in May a national holiday. A certain air of commercialism has clouded this day we set aside to honor our mothers, but the real purpose has been kept in mind: to honor "the best mother who ever lived, your mother."

It is strange that the idea of a Mother's Day had not been promoted sooner, or that it should have taken so long to be generally adopted. It is a natural instinct to honor mothers, and each of us believes firmly that his mother is the best of all mothers.

The Catholic Church, of course, makes one exception. Our spiritual mother, known simply as Mary, takes precedence over our natural mothers. But Mary is such a warm and human figure in history that we look upon her with the same personal affection that we have for the mother who cared for us as little children.

As we make plans for the observance of Mother's Day next week, we might take a moment to think about the life of another earthly mother, Saint Monica. The Blessed Virgin suffered because her Son was perfect in His goodness; Monica suffered for years because her son was considerably less than perfect. According to his own testimony, this son of hers lived a wicked and dissolute life, ignoring for many years the attempts of his mother to help him.

His name? Saint Augustine, one of the brightest figures in the Church. If there is a mother who reads this and worries about her own child, she can take courage from the example of Monica. If there is a son who doubts the meaning of mother love, he can take up one of Augustine's books and read what he said about his own mother.

A Gripping Story

There is a popular novel still being sold widely which helps to explain the mother-son relationship of Monica and Augustine. The "Confessions" of Saint Augustine may be heavy going. Try "Late Have I Loved Thee"—which takes its title from the saint's book, and in a rough way parallels his own life. It's a gripping story.

But the real story of Augustine is the story of Monica, his mother. She was born of Christian parents in North Africa, only 300 years after the death of Christ. Her husband was a pagan and a man of rather poor habits. Monica was not alone in having trouble with her husband, but she remained sweet and kind, and other women in town came to her for help and guidance.

Augustine was one of three children she had. According to his own story, he was lazy, although his brilliance of mind was undeniable. What a modern story that is—the brilliant, lazy son, being urged to study and make something of himself by his mother. Augustine was sent to Carthage to study, but fell in with poor companions and began to lead a life that was sinful in the extreme. He was guilty of all sorts of vices; and we are not uncharitable in saying this, because Augustine describes his own faults in full.

On a visit home, he fell into a dinner-table argument with his mother. In a scene that takes place even today, Monica became angry and ordered her son from the table. Then, like many another mother, she relented and called him back.

But still there was no sign that Augustine would give up his proud, sinful life. Monica might have despaired if she had not seen signs that God was with her in her fight. First, her husband became a convert to the Church, and died in the state of grace. Her mother-in-law, too, who had been disagreeable when she lived with Monica, turned to Christianity. Finally, the bishop comforted her with these words, "Stop worrying, Monica. The son of so many tears will not perish."

Rebirth In God

Given new courage, Monica continued to pray for her son, who had not even been baptized—but who instead went on to adopt a heresy that had become popular. He went to Rome to study, and Monica followed. He went to Milan, and friends saw the pathetic sight of a mother chasing her son and trying to bring him back to God, while he had nothing but rebuffs.

But now a change took place. Saint Ambrose met Augustine and began to show him his errors, both in his thinking and in the life he led. Through the teaching of Ambrose, Augustine saw the truth, and was finally baptized. The devotion of his mother inspired him to write his "Confessions," and he has said that Monica was twice his mother because she not only gave him bodily life, but through her tears and prayers she brought about his re-birth in the sight of God.

Shortly before Monica died, she told Augustine that he should not worry about her body, but always remember her soul in his prayers.

A Blessing On All The Mothers Of Diocese

We hope that Dad and children will do a little more for Mother than merely to purchase for her a material present. Dad and children should go to Holy Communion for Mother as a family, and Mother, of course, should join them. In many parishes, on Mother's Day, the Sodality Communion is suspended, and people enter the pews as families and receive Holy Communion as families, offering their Holy Communion for Mother and their home.

Last week we had the Enthronement of the Sacred Heart in Central Catholic High School, Fort Wayne, in a very beautiful ceremony. It is nearly 800 years since Jesus appeared as "the Sacred Heart" to St. Margaret Mary Alacoque. On that occasion He made twelve promises which every Catholic family should wish to have fulfilled in its own behalf. One of these promises was: "I shall bless the homes in which an image of My Heart is erected and honored."

MOST REV. JOHN F. NOLL, D.D.

Yet it is only now that families, in a big way, are working for that blessing.

Another promise related to the First Friday Communions of Reparation. Every Catholic has been familiar with that practice, just as people, in large number, are responding to the request made by the Blessed Virgin at Fatima, namely, that her Divine Son would be much pleased if Catholics received Holy Communion on five consecutive First Saturdays of the month.

When the family has a deep devotion to the Holy Eucharist, it is not likely ever to get off the track or to live in unhappiness or sadness.

People of Fort Wayne, when downtown, should always pay a visit to Jesus enthroned in the Blessed Sacrament Chapel. They should not merely drop in to say their rosary, or other vocal prayers, but, after worshipping Christ on their knees for a little while, they might sit down, open their mind and ask our Lord to talk to them. Great miracles of grace have taken place through that practice.

That is why I have urged Fort Wayne Catholics to ask their non-Catholic neighbors to drop in, even if they only sit down, in that soothing and supernatural atmosphere. Many well-known intellectual converts have received the "gift of Faith" by doing just that.

In cities outside of Fort Wayne, Catholics should form the habit of dropping into a downtown church when they chance to be close to one.

If you have not had the Sacred Heart formally enthroned in your home, why not do it? The purpose is to make Christ a part of your family, the King of your home. If He promised to bless such a home, who is there who would not want that blessing?

Radio Award For Father Peyton

In Hollywood, screen star Irene Dunne presented Father Patrick Peyton, founder and producer of the Family Theater Radio series, with the celebrated John Lester Radio Award. Mr. Lester, prominent syndicated radio columnist, proclaimed Family Theater, "Radio's foremost dramatic series for the current 1951-52 season," and cited it for the "high moral tone, wholesomeness, as well as superior entertainment value." The program is heard by 425 Mutual Network stations throughout the country, and by transcription, in Canada and Australia. (NC Photos)

'School, Society' Editor Hits 'Critical Resentment' Against Private Schools

New York —(NC)— "It is a gross error to believe that the attainment of the ideals of democracy is dependent upon uniformity of educational institutions. What matters is the spirit that dominates the aims that they seek to attain, whether they are public or private."

This statement, commenting on attacks on independent schools at the Boston meeting of the American Association of School Administrators, was made by Isaac L. Kandel, editor of School and Society and an internationally known educator. School and Society is one of the most quoted educational reviews.

There seems to prevail an atmosphere of critical resentment against private schools as though they have no right to exist," Dr. Kandel wrote in the weekly magazine, whose editorial offices are here.

"The general charge that is leveled against private schools, whether they serve the needs of a religious group or cater to the children of an economic class that can afford to pay high fees, is that they are divisive.

"So far no evidence of such divisiveness has been produced, certainly not nearly as much evidence as is to be found in studies made by Lloyd Warner and his colleagues of the divisive effect of socio-economic conditions upon the kind of course pursued, participation in extracurricular activities, and the friends made by pupils in public high schools.

Spain To Spend $7,000,000 To Prepare For Eucharistic Congress

Barcelona—(NC)—The Spanish government has set aside over 72 million pesetas (about $7,000,000 at the official exchange rate) to make improvements here for the International Eucharistic Congress on May 27 to June 1.

The money will be used to repair highways, streets and railroad facilities, to install special radio, press, motion picture and transportation services and to help the municipal government pay other expenses in connection with the Congress.

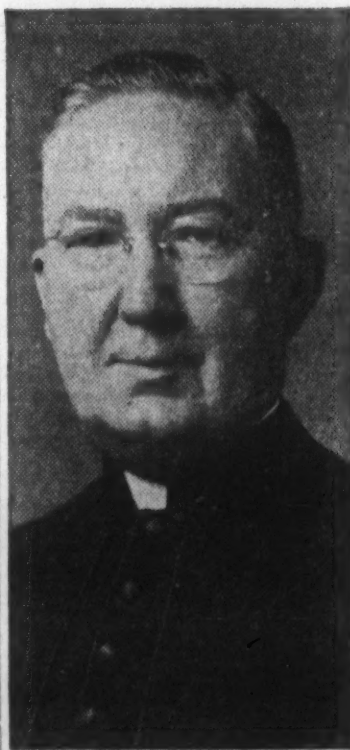

Archbishop O'Boyle To Speak At N.D. Baccalaureate Mass

Notre Dame—The Most Rev. Patrick O'Boyle, D.D., Archbishop of Washington, D. C., will deliver the sermon at the Baccalaureate Mass to be held Commencement Sunday, June 1, at the University of Notre Dame, it was announced recently, by the Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, C.S.C., president of Notre Dame.

Archbishop O'Boyle joins Dr. Charles Malik, chairman of the Commission on Human Rights of the United Nations, on the Notre Dame Commencement program. Father Cavanaugh previously announced that Dr. Malik will deliver the Commencement Address at the ceremonies.

Archbishop O'Boyle, who has been Archbishop of Washington since 1947, was ordained to the Catholic priesthood in 1921. He served for five years after his ordination as curate of St. Columba's Church in New York City and later as executive director of the Catholic Guardian Society.

A native of Scranton, Pa., the Notre Dame Baccalaureate speaker formerly served as assistant director of the Child Care Department of the Catholic Charities of the New York Archdiocese and as executive director of the Immaculate Virgin Mission, a home for dependent children. Convention Site Named For CPA Eastern Region

Providence, R. I. —(NC)— The annual Eastern Region of the Catholic Press Association convention will be held here, probably in November, it has been announced.

Spain feels obligated "to see that such a noble manifestation of faith will take place in the splendor it deserves," stated the decree setting aside the fund.

At the same time the government has announced that it will grant an amnesty to an unspecified number of prisoners on the occasion of the Congress.

According to some estimates, about 10,000 prisoners will benefit from the amnesty. The Spanish Minister of Justice explained that prisoners serving sentences up to two years would receive a complete amnesty. Sentences of more than two and up to six years would be cut in half, and those of more than six and up to 25 years would be reduced by a quarter. Sentences passed by military courts are also believed to come under the amnesty, which, according to Minister of Justice Antonio Iturmendi Banales, "will be limited only by the principal of social defense."

Meanwhile the priceless, 16th-century monstrance of the Toledo cathedral has arrived here for the Eucharistic ceremonies. The monstrance is over six feet tall and contains 640 diamonds, 14 topaz stones and 51 sapphires. In all, the monstrance consists of 24,000 pieces.

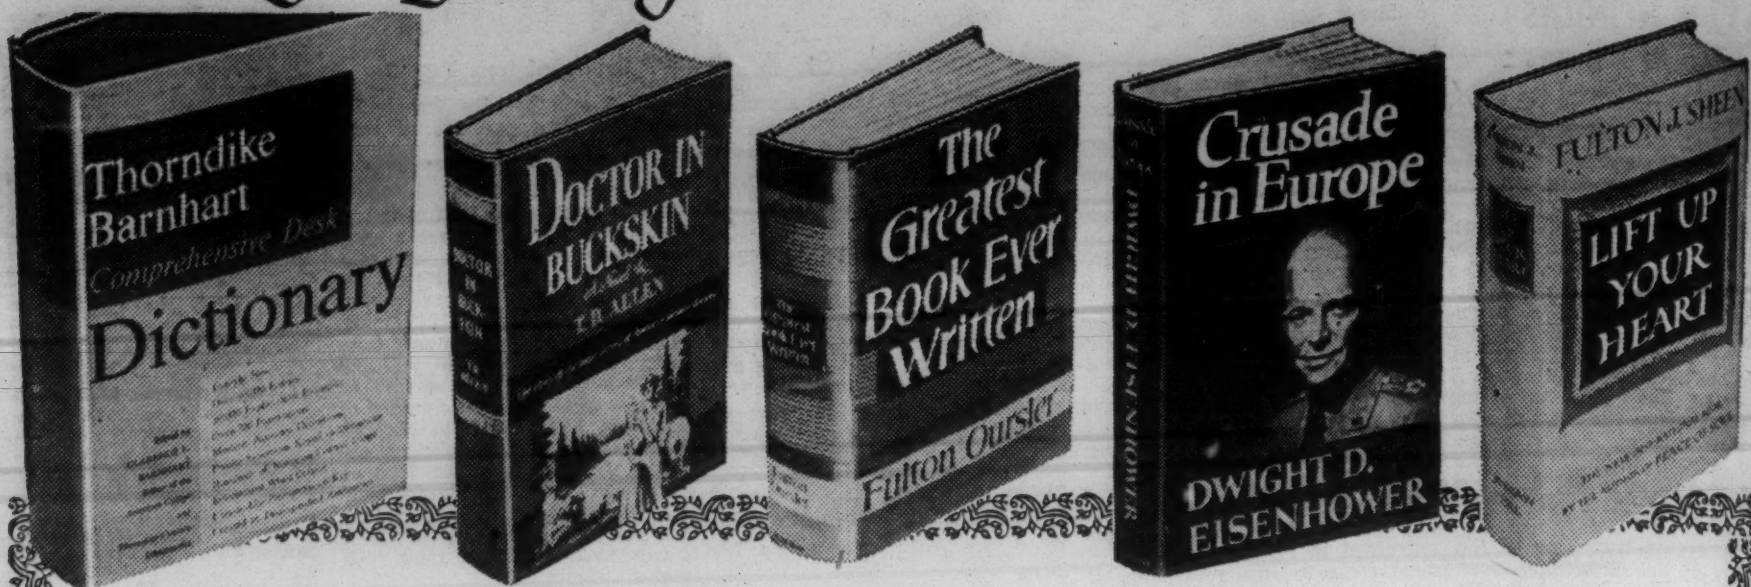

Work is progressing on the altar being erected here in honor of the victims of communist atrocities during the Spanish civil war. These victims include Bishop Manuel Irurita Almandoz of Barcelona, who was shot on Dec. 3, 1936, and 910 priests, 46 nuns and seven seminarians in the Barcelona diocese. The names of these victims will be carved on the altar.

At the same time the National Exhibit of Ancient Eucharistic Art has never been opened here. It includes 200 Eucharistic vessels weighing over ten tons. Among them is a monstrance made from the mirror of Queen Isabella I which is customarily kept in the royal chapel of Granada. The exhibit also shows several tapestries by Peter Rubens, the Flemish painter.

The invitation to hold the meeting here was extended by Bishop Russell J. McViney of Providence.

It also announced that the Rev. Joseph F. Bracq, editor of the Providence Visitor, has been elected chairman of the Eastern Region.

Youth Rally To Be Held In South Bend, May 18

3,000 Teen-Agers To Attend 1-Day Meeting At N.D.

South Bend—More than 3,000 teen-agers from the 35 parishes in the South Bend area are expected at the Youth Rally scheduled for Sunday afternoon, May 18 in the Drill Hall on the campus of the University of Notre Dame, the Rev. Joseph J. Hennes, Diocesan Youth director and pastor of St. Monica's Church, Mishawaka, announced this week.

Featured in the program will be the greetings to the young people by the Most Rev. John F. Noll, D.D., Bishop of Fort Wayne and the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John S. Sabo, Dean and pastor of Our Lady of Hungary Church.

Fr. Conroy To Speak
The principal address will be delivered by the Rev. James Conroy, national director of The Fighting 69th youth crusade and associate editor of Our Sunday Visitor. Father Conroy will speak on "Youth and the Fighting 69th."

The one-day retreat will open with attendance at Mass and reception of Holy Communion by the youths in their respective parishes. They will complete the day by participating in the rally at Notre Dame.

The program opens with music by the Notre Dame band in the Drill Hall at 1:45 p.m. Following several preliminary announcements, the assembly will sing "Come Holy Ghost," then listen to the address by Father Conroy.

The Notre Dame glee club will present several selections at 2:45 p.m. and at 3:00 p.m., Father Conroy will again take the rostrum to relate the story of St. Mary Goretti.

Close With Benediction
The assembly will then sing hymns to the Blessed Virgin while two boys, selected from each of the parishes represented, escort the Blessed Sacrament to the altar. The rally will close with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Two girls, also selected from each of the parishes in the area, will distribute booklets on a Novena to St. Mary Goretti.

In commenting on the rally to the members of the committee in charge, Bishop Noll offered the following observation:

"Make it very clear to the youths that Almighty God and His Church, as well as their country, need Catholic youths to band together for other purposes than those purely social. We want every one of them to be a 'Christopher' as the Holy Father, only two weeks ago, addressing a large audience in Rome, emphasized."

College Students Invited
Father Hennes is assisted in the direction of the rally by the Rev. John J. Jakubielski, St. Adalbert's Church and the Rev. William O'Connor, C.S.C., St. Patrick's Church.

The directors stated that while the rally is for teen-agers in the high schools of the vicinity, 8th graders and college students are invited.

Father Cavanaugh Is Honored By Military Review At N.D.

Notre Dame—The Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, C.S.C., who will retire this summer as president of the University of Notre Dame, was the recipient of a military tribute paid him Saturday afternoon, May 3 by more than 1,400 future officers of the Armed Forces during a combined review of the Naval, Air Force and Army Engineers R.O.T.C. units at Notre Dame.

Father Cavanaugh, who assumed the Notre Dame presidency in 1946 after six years as the University's vice-president, was instrumental in the establishment of the military training units on the Notre Dame campus. During Father Cavanaugh's administration Notre Dame became one of the few universities in the United States to train future officers for all branches of the Armed Forces. Father Cavanaugh must retire this summer according to Canon Law.

Military dignitaries on the reviewing stand during the Father Cavanaugh testimonial review included Rear Admiral Francis P. Old, U.S.N., Commandant of the Ninth Naval District; Major General Harry A. Johnson, U.S.A.F., Commanding General of the Tenth Air Force; and Colonel John Boos, U.S.A., representing General A. C. Smith, Commanding General of the Fifth Army Headquarters.

Awards for outstanding military achievement were made during the review to thirty-seven students in the three Notre Dame military training units. Eighteen awards were presented to students in the Notre Dame Air Force R.O.T.C. unit, eleven to students in the Naval R.O.T.C. unit and eight to members of the Army Engineers unit.

Two Notre Dame students who won individual national championships in the William Randolph Hearst R.O.T.C. Rifle Competition were presented awards symbolic of their national titles during the testimonial ceremonies. In team competition the Notre Dame Naval R.O.T.C. rifle squad received second-place medals in the Hearst matches, while members of the Notre Dame Air Force R.O.T.C. team were awarded third-place medals.

The Honorable John A. Scott, Mayor of South Bend, delivered the testimonial address honoring Father Cavanaugh and praised the accomplishments at Notre Dame during his administration.

Most Rev. John F. Noll, Bishop of the Fort Wayne Diocese, $500, to be used for the benefit of orphans of the diocese; and the acting pastor of St. Patrick's Church, $1,000 for masses.

Murray Receives Laetare Medal In N.Y. Ceremonies

New York, N. Y.—The University of Notre Dame formally conferred its 1952 Laetare Medal, awarded annually to the outstanding American Catholic layman, on Thomas E. Murray, of New York City, a member of the United States Atomic Energy Commission, in ceremonies here Monday afternoon, May 5.

Mr. Murray received the medal at ceremonies held in the Archdiocesan Building in New York City. His Eminence, Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, presided at the ceremonies. The Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, C.S.C., president of Notre Dame, presented the Laetare Medal to Mr. Murray.

Father Cavanaugh, in the citation accompanying the Medal, told Mr. Murray that Notre Dame selected him for the honor "because of your contributions as an inventor in the field of engineering, and because in an age when a spirit of materialism and unbelief has infected many in the domain of science and engineering, you have stood out as a champion of Christian principle."

Wanderings Of Polish Refugee End Happily

LOIS M. CANRIGHT

Reprinted from South Bend Tribune

April 21 is a memorable date for 20-year-old Mrs. Wanda Zmyslo. It marks the beginning of one of the few happy years of her life. On April 21, 1951, she was married to Methew Zmyslo. And on the first anniversary of their marriage, the Zmyslos became the proud parents of a daughter, Elizabeth Marie.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Zmyslo was one of the wandering people of the world who, since she was a child of nine years, had no home because of world conflicts. Fortunately, the Polish-born girl has forgotten some of the details of a girlhood that saw her traveling more than two-thirds of the way around the world in search of a home.

At 3 a.m. Feb. 10, 1940, Wanda Magierowski, her parents, two sisters and three brothers, were awakened in their Poznan, Poland home by Russians and herded with other Polish neighbors to a Russian labor camp.

From that camp, the family was sent to Siberia, where because of enforced labor regulations for all persons over 13 years of age, Wanda was separated from other members of her family for sometimes two weeks. Wanda and her two younger sisters were too young to work, but they were required to go to school where only the Russian language was permitted.

During the six months of the Magierowskis' stay in Siberia, Wanda's mother was poisoned and died. This was the second member of the family to drop from the group. Enroute to Siberia one of her brothers became separated from the family circle.

Through the help of a Polish general, several of the families enslaved in the labor camps were permitted to go to Persia, now Iran. The men of the group were formed into an army to fight the Germans. Wanda's father never made the army. He was shot while the group was being moved to Persia.

In Persia, Wanda and her two sisters were housed in an orphanage. Nearly six months later, the small group was on the move again. The next stopping-off place was India.

Wanda becomes a little confused about the names of cities and camps when she tries to re-tell the itinerary of a wandering war child. But she is no more confused than immigration officials in the various countries when they tried to fathom her age from passports.

Fear of being separated from the last remaining member of her family circle, a younger sister, Jane, led the two to falsify their ages at the drop of a hat. In order that the two not be separated because of the extreme youth of Jane (six years younger than Wanda)

Why
THE SACRIFICE OF THE ALTAR
+++ FOR You
remember the dignity of man

By REV. RICHARD GINDER

We give as we love. The more we love, the more we are willing to give. That is the meaning of sacrifice, really—giving up what we love less for what we love more.

A family will sacrifice luxuries, even comforts, to pay for a child's music lessons. A man seeing his friend in trouble will risk his life, if need be, to rescue that friend. Rarely, we are called on to make "the supreme sacrifice"—to lay down not just our money or our home but our very life for our country. Jesus Himself says that there can be no greater love than this.

Jesus asks us to prove our love for Him by keeping His commandments. But how has He proved His love for us? By laying down His life to free us from the slavery of sin. It wasn't enough that He should come to earth and give us lofty teachings and good example. No, His love drove Him to the limit. He gave His all.

Who? Jesus Christ, God and Man. For whom? For you and me.

Should we not increase in self-respect? Should we not respect likewise the dignity of our fellow-men?

Trapp Family Story To Be Featured On Hour Of St. Francis

Fort Wayne—With Jane Wyatt, one of screen and radio's outstanding dramatic actresses in the leading role, The Hour of St. Francis combines romance and faith into a uniquely appealing program. The story will be heard at 9:45 p.m. Friday, May 9, over Radio Station WOWO.

This is the true story of Maria Augusta Trapp, as she wrote it in her book, "The Story of the Trapp Family Singers." As a young woman, her greatest ambition is to become a teaching sister at the ancient Benedictine convent of Nonnberg, Austria. Ill-health forces her to take a temporary position as governess in the family of Captain Georg Von Trapp, who has seven motherless children.

A sophisticated Princess and the children themselves finally precipitate a crisis which sends Maria hurrying back to her convent. Here she receives a piece of advice which changes the whole current of her life.

Literature Is Powerful Anti-Communist Weapon

Lexington, Ky — "The Literature and Aspirations of the Slovak Nation" was the title of the talk delivered by the Rev. John J. Lach, pastor of Immaculate Conception Church, Whiting, at the Fifth Annual University of Kentucky Foreign Language Conference, here, April 24-26.

Father Lach, who is also publisher of the Slovak-American, oldest Slovak newspaper in the United States, was one of a group of speakers on a panel discussion of Slavonic languages.

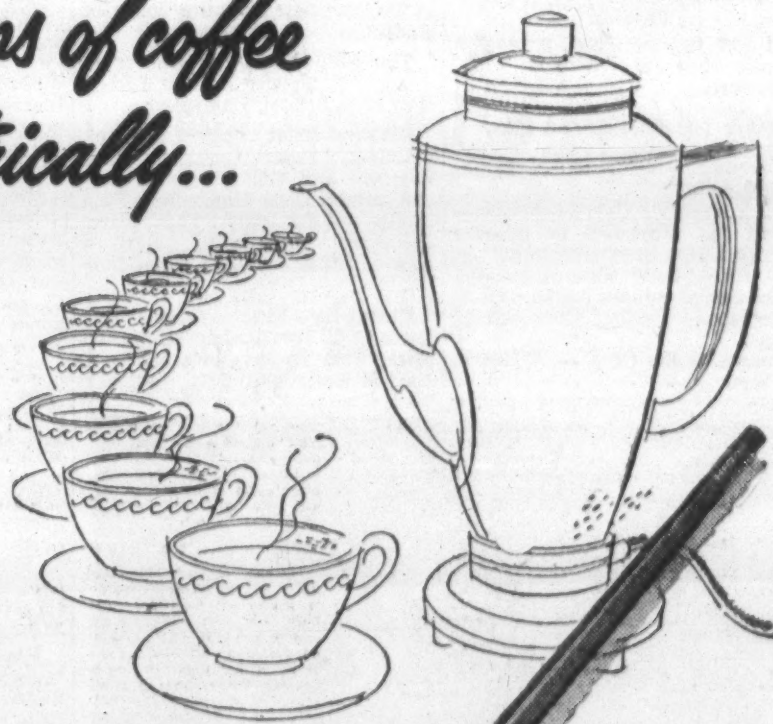

"An objective view of Slovak literature," Father Lach declared, "might lead one to conclude that its function in Slovak life has been overemphasized. On the other hand, when Slovak literature is viewed in terms of political rather than literary history, the conclusion is inescapable that it alone played the role of an elemental force giving for and direction to Slovak life in the centuries-long struggle of the Slovak people to win both their national as well as human rights."

Father pointed out that everything he said about the Slovak literature could be applied with very little change to all of the nations behind the Iron Curtain and "especially so to those nations which have lived through long centuries of oppression without enjoying independence, for among the latter literary traditions are a most powerful weapon in the war against Communism — a weapon far from sufficiently utilized in the cold war.

"Communism seeks out men of literary note abroad, indoctrinates them to the left, and makes of them a fifth column undermining and destroying their own people. The most logical move for free nations to make in the psychological war against Communism, therefore, is that of utilizing anti-Communist poets and writers as their most powerful counter-weapon against it."

Coffee made exactly to your taste automatically — that's one of the pleasant things about an electric coffee maker. Pleasant, too, is the low cost of the electricity used. You can make 52 cups of coffee for less than the price of a 5¢ pencil. This is just another example of why electricity is still the biggest bargain in your family budget. Progressive, economy-minded business management help keep it that way.

Sacred Heart Enthroned At C.C.

Procession During Enthronement At Central Catholic

Fort Wayne — Recalling the vision of the Sacred Heart as revealed to St. Margaret Mary, Alaquoque at Paray-Le-Monial, Bishop Noll, last week exhorted the students of Central Catholic High School to an increase in this devotion. He also reminded them that they should spread this devotion in their own homes and seek to inspire their parents with the idea.

The occasion was the school Enthronement of the Sacred Heart in which the entire student body of 1,200 boys and girls participated. Sponsored by the Student Spiritual Council, the ceremony began with Mass in the gymnasium at 9:00 a.m., celebrated by the Rev. William Lester, principal. This was followed by the Acts of Consecration to the Sacred Heart of Jesus and the Immaculate Heart of Mary, the Rosary, Enthronement of the statue in the school gym, a sermon by Bishop Noll and was climaxed with Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament. A feature of the two-hour program was the student procession, in which 29 pictures of the Sacred Heart were carried and later enthroned in each homeroom.

Assisting priests were the Rev. Fred Westendorf, CCHS Spiritual Director, the Rev. Michael Vichur and the Rev. Donald Muldoon, faculty members.

The Enthronement ceremony was a follow-up of the Fighting 69th campaign at C.C.H.S., and renewal of the Pledge was led by the Rev. James Conroy, Associate Editor of Our Sunday Visitor and National Director of the FIGHT-ING 69th. Don O'Keefe, CCHS Senior and Captain of the FIGHTING 69th requested the Pledge in the name of the student body.

The beautiful new statue of the Sacred Heart used for the occasion was purchased and given as a memorial to the school, by the Graduating Class of 1952. The pictures were purchased by the individual homerooms.

Sister Assumpta, Student Spiritual Council advisor was in charge of arrangements. She was assisted by John Pease, John Stier, Joseph Burgard, James Lillich, Larry Moser, Bill Federspiel, Sue Leden, Judy Suelzer, with Miss Corene Konger in charge of decorations and correspondence.

Decatur Beats Bluffton, Berne; Loses To Convoy

JERRY LAURENT

The Decatur Commodores played three games last week, edging out Berne, 3-2, on Monday, dropping a 6-1 battle to Convoy, Ohio, on Tuesday, and scoring a 5-1 victory against Bluffton on Friday.

Louis Laurent, Commodore hurler, pitched a two hit game against Berne and racked up 11 strikeouts. Berne scored its only two runs in the first inning. Decatur tied it up in the fifth and brought in the winning run in the seventh frame.

Against Convoy, Walt Mowery and Phil Brunton pitched for Decatur. The Convoy hurler gave up only three hits while Convoy received its six runs on nine safeties and two errors on the part of the Commodores.

Decatur knocked over the Bluffton Tigers, 5-1, as Phil Brunton gave up six hits. Bluffton scored its lone run in the second inning while Decatur's runs were racked up in four different innings—scoring one each in the first and second frames, two in the fourth, and one more in the fifth. The Tigers used three hurlers who gave up seven hits while committing four errors.

Hammond Noll Wins Two Out Of Three

TOM RYDER

It was a hectic week for Noll's fighting Warriors, but not quite a perfect one. The Blue and Gold did manage to win twice, once each from Griffith and Merrillville, yet they bowed humbly to Chicago Bowen 8-7 in seven innings.

Merrillville's Pirates helped Noll round out the week tumbling 5-2 in a seven-inning game. Joe Kapuscinski and Wally Mauch were the big guns on the hitting end of the Warrior attack with a home run apiece. Ed Pendleton went all the way for the Pirates to become the losing pitcher while Dave Austgen was credited with the win.

In the middle game of the week, the Warriors were forced into submission 8-7 by a strong Bowen team. Bowen opened by scoring one run in the second inning. They added two more runs in the fourth, four in the fifth and completed the scoring with a lone run in the seventh.

The Warriors didn't score until the fourth inning when they pushed across 5 runs. They scored once more in the fifth followed by Jack O'Drobinak's triple in the seventh which produced Noll's final run. Three Bowen pitchers gave Noll a total of seven hits while Stan Kosinski allowed the visitors to collect eleven hits.

Noll turned the Griffith game into an actual marathon with a 12-2 victory. The highlight of the game was a big nine run third inning in which every Noll batter scored.

In the sixth inning, the Panthers scored their two runs on three singles, a walk and an error. Jim Bowman, Griffith losing pitcher, gave up twelve hits, walked five, and struck out three men. Dave Austgen gave up three hits, four bases on balls, and struck out nine, while getting credit for the win.

Program Suggestions For June

Religion

- 1) Whitsunday (Pentecost) — How about a special remembrance of service men and women?
- 2) Father's Day — C.Y.O. sons, dads, Father Moderator might recreate together at Mass and Holy Communion.
- 3) Feast of the Sacred Heart — Why not refresh your young people on the devotions of the Nine First Fridays?
- 4) Monthly Holy Communion Sunday.

Cultural

- 1) Is there a zoo in your town? C.Y.O.'ers might like to rediscover the Animal Kingdom on a Saturday afternoon!
- 2) Catholics hold forth on NBC-TV "Frontiers of Faith" this month with a series on the Sacraments. C.Y.O.'ers might invite Catholic and non-Catholic friends for a "TV Listening Party" in parish hall or member's home. Consult local papers for time and station. What about iced tea with TV?
- 3) How about a twilight "sing-song" in the park or C.Y.O.'er's back yard? All you need are: A leader, a pitchpipe, would-be Lanzas and plenty of group fun!

Social

First Day of summer tells of the "Picnic Time" at a nearby grounds or in a park. What about inviting local serviceboys and girls for food, fun etc.

Physical

- 1) The time is okay for croquet — more fun for "take it easy" sportsters.
 - 2) Tee off! Golf enthusiasts get together for practice and play.
 - 3) "Let's Play Tennis Week." Have you considered a Tennis Tournament?
 - 4) A Father's Day Suggestion — Spend the afternoon or evening with dad at a baseball game.
